Laird—Defense Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress Monday Hanoi's offensive could cost the United States an extra $5 billion if it had to maintain its present military response through 1972.

Earlier in the day, Laird had told a Senate subcommittee that if Congress approved a $30-billion cut in defense funds proposed by presidential aspirant George McGovern, it should provide "at least $1 billion for white flags ... because it means surrender."

The secretary said also that if Congress doesn't approve funds for new weapons systems it would be jeopardizing further U.S.-Soviet arms-limitation agreements because he said they must be negotiated from a position of strength.

Laird testified in the afternoon before a House subcommittee that U.S. bombing and the mining of North Vietnam harbors could add $3 billion to his requested $84-billion budget if it continues through the end of September.

The secretary said he will ask for more than $750 million in additional funds to meet costs for the increased U.S. war operations through this fiscal year, ending this month.

"Are you saying we may have to spend an additional $3 billion and possibly $5 billion as a result of the Hanoi offensive?" asked House Appropriations Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex.

Laird said that was correct but gave few other details, saying he will have charts later to explain any additional war funds request.

Laird said the Moscow arms limitation agreements will knock a net $550 million off defense spending next year—$650 million for the reduction to two Safeguard antimissile sites from 12, offset partly by a $100-million increase for offensive weapons.

He said the Safeguard savings will be $5 billion over five years.

Laird called the U.S.-Soviet agreement to limit antimissile systems to one each around Moscow and Washington and one each to protect missile fields "the very best we could negotiate considering conditions" in Congress at the present time.

He did not elaborate on whether he was referring to opposition in Congress to the concept of antimissile systems or to a desire to limit them to cut defense costs.

Raids Exact Serious Toll

Admit Bomb Damage

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam acknowledged Monday that two months of intense U.S. air strikes were exacting a serious toll. American pilots continued their raids over the North and bombed two more major rail bridges, severing the northwest train line to China, the U.S. Command announced.

Radio Hanoi, quoting the official Communist party newspaper, Nhan Dan, said North Vietnam is having "very difficult" economic problems because of the bombing.

"But our people can ... still defeat the U.S. aggressors," it declared.

The broadcast, monitored in Hong Kong, clearly referred to damage inflicted by super-accurate "smart" bombs on the country's transportation, power and storage systems. Both the northwest and northeast rail lines to China have been cut by the raids.

The U.S. Command said more than 260 strikes were flown Sunday and eight Air Force F4 Phantoms destroyed the Tai Hut and Dong Khai bridges, 50 miles south of the Chinese border. Flying in two formations the Phantoms directed five 2,000-pound laser-guided bombs on the bridges about 85 miles northwest of Hanoi.

"Those laser-guided bombs don't miss," said one officer.

U.S. aircraft also hit a highway bridge south of the key port of Vinh, the command said.

In South Vietnam, government forces reported some gains in Kontum, saying they reopened the airstrip for the first time since May 24 and recaptured some ground in the central highlands provincial capital.

There was scattered fighting along the central coast and in the north, but bad weather hampered air operations.

In neighboring Cambodia, early presidential election returns showed incumbent Lon Nol holding nearly 60 per cent of the vote in a surprisingly narrow lead. Cambodians voted Sunday for the first time since Prince Norodom Sihanouk was deposed two years ago and a republic under Lon Nol was established. An unexpectedly large vote was going to a dark horse candidate who cam-aigned for Sihanouk's return. Rockets slammed into Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital on Monday, killing six—including three girls—and wounding 11. One was a direct hit on the Defense Ministry, and others exploded by Lon Nol's villa.

It was the first daylight rocket attack on Phnom Penh in more than two years of war, Associated Press correspondent Robin Mannoock reported.

Johnson Calls TV 'Pusher'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Communications Commissioner Nicholas Johnson assailed drug commercials Monday and said "television is the pusher."

"Every indicator of drug use—from cigarette sales to aspirin sales, from the use of alcohol to the use of vitamins, from sleeping pills to stay-awake pills—is increasing annually," Johnson said. "And television is intimately involved in selling these drugs."

Speaking to the annual meeting of the National Coordinating Council on Drug Education, Johnson said, however, he does not think "television executives have made a conscious decision to sell drugs as opposed to other commodities."

"And I don't think television is wholly responsible for creating a society that craves drugs,"

Johnson said the current anti-drug spots featuring professional athletes "may very well be ... encouraging drug use by calling the attention of young people to a glamorized, illegal alternative to the alcohol guzzled by the adult world."

He said the Nixon administration's efforts to dry up the supply of illegal drugs "doesn't work in practice."

"If we could totally choke off the supply (of illegal drugs) ... there are enough other (legal) drugs that can be, and are, abused to constitute as much if not more of a social problem than illegal drugs," he said, listing alcohol, glue-sniffing, pill popping, and anti-freeze and cough syrup drinking.

Taking aim at the TV industry, Johnson said "it is clear that broadcasters have decided to capitalize on (the drug) phenomenon to their great profit and shame."

Searchers Recover Hijacking Ransom

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The FBI said Monday that authorities have recovered the rest of a $200,000 ransom taken by a man who parachuted from a hijacked plane over Nevada on Saturday. But another $303,000 in ransom obtained by a hijacker last month was reported sent to a Communist Chinese bank in Hong Kong.

In the Nevada case, the FBI reported searchers found $160,000 in a remote area of the state. The hijacker, who was captured shortly after he parachuted from the United Airlines jet, left the rest of the money aboard the plane.

In Miami, meanwhile, Norman E. Bliss, a special FBI agent, testified at a hearing for Frederick William Hahneman, accused of hijacking a plane and bailing out over Honduras on May 5. Bliss said Hahneman, 49, told him that the ransom money was bound for "the Bank of Communist China in Hong Kong."

U.S. Magistrate Michael Oshan ordered Hahneman held without bond and bound over to federal authorities in Alexandria, Va.

Bliss testified that he and two other agents interviewed Hahneman in Honduras on Saturday after Hahneman turned himself in to U.S. Embassy officials.

Bliss said Hahneman told him he delivered the bag full of cash to an unknown intermediary in Honduras the night of May 5.

"He just said he accomplished his mission by Monday night," said the agent. "The money was out of his hands. He said it (the money) was coming back to the U.S., but first it (Turn To Page Six) (See "Searchers")"

Connally Leaving Country Tuesday

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)

President Nixon is sending outgoing Treasury Secretary John B. Connally on a 15-nation, month-long tour beginning Tuesday to discuss international economic matters and "any subject which his hosts wish to raise," the White House announced Monday.

Connally, however, will not go to North Vietnam to negotiate for the release of prisoners of war as was suggested by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., in the Democratic presidential candidates' debate Sunday in California.

Cronally, the Texas Democrat who many believe may become Nixon's choice of a running mate later this year, will travel to South America, the Far East, South Asia and Europe.

Details of the trip are not firm, said Ronald L. Ziegler, presidential press secretary, but Connally will go first to Venezuela and then to Colombia, Brazil, Argentina, Bolivia and Peru between June 6 and June 14 on the first leg of his journey.

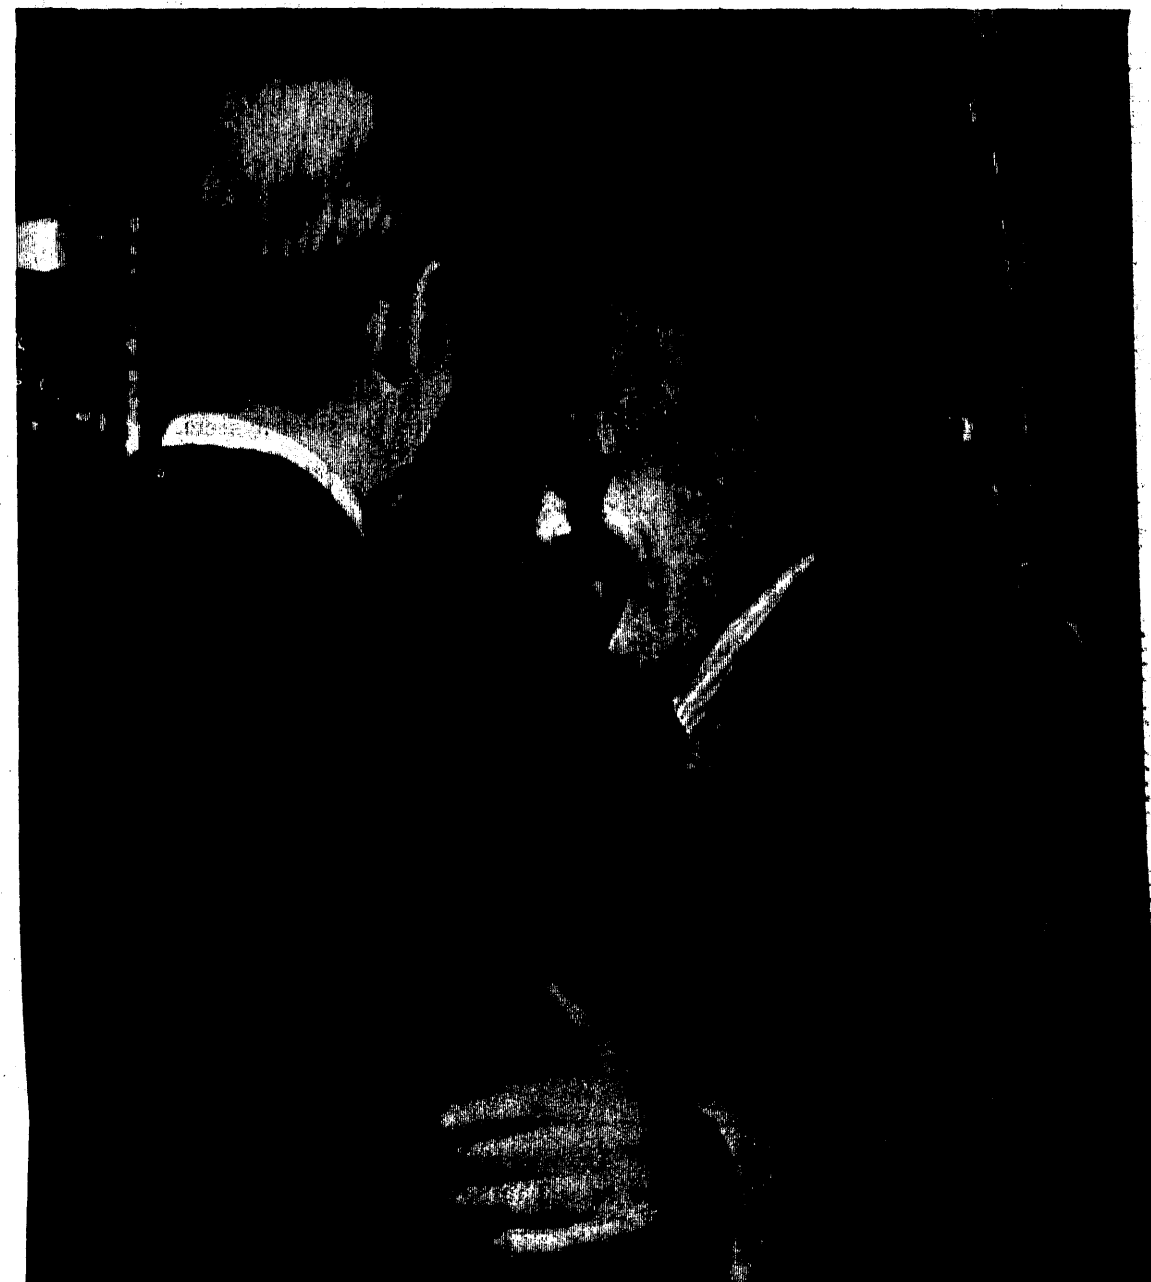

He will depart Key Biscayne Tuesday and be in Caracas June 6-7, Bogota June 7-8, Brazil June 8-9, Sao Paulo June 9-10, Buenos Aires June 10-12, La Paz June 12-13 and Lima June 13-14.

Ziegler declined to give the names of the other countries on the itinerary but said it could be expected that Connally would go to India and Pakistan and he would not rule out South Vietnam nor Bangladesh.

He said flatly that Connally would not travel to Africa, citing recent visits by Mrs. Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Ziegler said Connally, traveling as a special representative of the President, will "meet with chiefs of state and heads of government in various nations for discussion on matters of common concern between us and the countries with emphasis on current international economic issues."

He also said Connally would be in a position to "respond and discuss developments in the international field with reference to the President's recent trip to Peking and Moscow."

Justice Department Probes Contributions To HHH Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Federal Elections referred to the Justice Department Monday what it called a "possible violation" of the 1971 election law involving contributions to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign.

The new law prohibits giving or accepting contributions in the name of another person. Phillip S. Hughes, director of the elections office, said in a statement the case involves eight contributions under various names of $6,000 each.

It added that the contributions were "acknowledged to have been made possible by John L. and Frances L. Loeb" of New York City.

The Office of Federal Elections, an agency set up by the 1971 law, is a part of the government's General Accounting Office.

Also turned over to the Justice Department as required by law was a letter of explanation received from Paul R. Thatcher, treasurer of The Committee for the Nomination of Hubert H. Humphrey.

Thatcher said Humphrey's campaign received the eight checks in question May 12 in a group of more than 100 contributions.

In a statement, Thatcher said the committee reported the contributions May 22. He related that Loeb and his wife said June 2 that "the contributions were made possible" by them, but they had just been told that under new laws "the contributions should have been attributed to them." Thatcher said the Loeb's asked that the committee records be changed to disclose their contributions.

"The committee immediately so advised the Office of Federal Elections and filed the amendment to the committee's May 22 report on Monday, June 5, 1972," Thatcher said.

"Without further inquiry and within hours of receiving the amendment to the report, the Office of Federal Elections referred the matter to the Justice Department," he said.

A General Accounting Office spokesman said the GAO first noticed the contributions when they were all reported at the same time by Humphrey campaign headquarters.

The spokesman said the GAO discussed the matter with Thatcher. The spokesman said the discussions "elucidated the fact" that the Loeb's first said the contributions were "made possible by them," but later said they contributed all of the money. The spokesman said the Loeb's initial lack of familiarity with election laws was brought up.

The spokesman said all the information was turned over to the Justice Department.

The law provides penalties for willful violation by contributors and recipients.

Wrap Up Hunt For Vote In California Primary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, the pollsters' favorite in the crucial California presidential primary, wrapped up his hunt for votes Monday and arranged to meet with skeptical Democratic governors.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota was covering the state from San Diego to San Francisco, battling for the victory that could stall or stop McGovern's drive for presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, Humphrey picked up some surprise support as Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty asked his backers to vote for Humphrey in the primary. "Our Democratic party is threatened with suicidal radicalization by Sen. George McGovern's lavishly financed campaign of deception and demagoguery," Yorty told a news conference. "I have decided to ask my Democratic supporters to cast their votes tomorrow for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey."

The mayor is one of eight candidates listed on the Democratic primary ballot but was given no chance of winning. Asked if his statement meant he was withdrawing from the presidential race, Yorty answered "no," and did not elaborate.

It was evident Humphrey would not get the encore debate he sought with McGovern. In a nationally televised interview Sunday, he challenged the South Dakota senator to meet him face to face on election eve, sharing the cost of the time so they wouldn't have to share the program with minor candidates. McGovern said he'd try to work it out.

But moments before he stepped out on his Monday campaign schedule, McGovern announced he was going to Hawaii to spend the night with Democrats at the Governors Conference.

Pioneer In Far Space

From time to time, these days, the papers carry brief progress reports on Pioneer 10's 21-month journey to the planet Jupiter. The items inspire a sort of cumulative fascination. For this odd little spacecraft with its freight of sensory instruments is hurtling — faster than any other man-made object—on a course that will take it past Jupiter half a billion miles away.

The venture fires the imagination, first of all, because of the vast distances involved. Interest is greatly heightened by the nature of the planet which Pioneer 10 will inspect, if all goes well, from a mere 87,000 miles out.

Jupiter is one of the most intriguing of all the planets. This would be so if only because of its size: its mass is more than double that of all the other solar system planets combined. Its enormous bulk is striped with shades of pink, blue, gray, orange, yellow, and in the southern hemisphere there floats the mysterious red oval 30,000 miles long and 8,000 wide.

Scientists are intensely curious about what lies beneath these outward aspects, all the more so because the planet is shrouded by a heavy cloud layer. They would like to know how deep the atmosphere is, whether the planet's surface is solid—whether, indeed, there is anything solid about it at all. Another puzzle is the planet's radiation of about two and a half times the energy it gets from the sun, suggesting some sort of independent heat-generating process.

To get a closeup look at Jupiter, Pioneer 10 will have to survive its current progression through the asteroid belt and also the onslaught of the planet's radiation, which may be as much as a million times greater than that of the earth's radiation belts. If it gets through more or less intact, its instruments will provide not only photographs but also a variety of data on temperatures, high-energy radiation, magnetic fields and other phenomena.

In a whisper, though. Because of the great distance involved, NASA's Deep Space Network scattered around the globe will be hard pressed to catch what the spacecraft reports. One account dramatizes the situation thus: "Pioneer's eight-watt signal, transmitted from Jupiter, will reach earth at a power so low that, if it were collected for 19 million years, it would light a 7.5-watt Christmas tree bulb for only one-thousandth of a second."

But we feel optimistic: it will transmit; it will be heard. And then gravitational force will whip it beyond Jupiter, beyond the solar system, on to what may be an unending journey among the stars.

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Treasury, with plenty of money on hand, is paying off some debts rather than refinancing them.
The action should make loans easier to get but the advantage is not likely to reach the man in the street immediately.

That is the opinion of bankers here who have had experience with government financing. They expect the government may not only pay cash to holders of $1.23 billion in bonds due June 15 but may pay off another $3 billion due later in the summer.

The government action, so rare that Treasury men couldn't remember when so much was paid off before, will put more money into circulation. This will increase the money supply and give lenders more funds to put to work.
"It could affect the prime rate," said Franklin R. Saul, former assistant secretary of the Treasury. "Certainly it will defer the rise which everybody had been expecting in short-term rates later this summer. I don't think it will be any important stimulant to business."

But Saul, now with F.S. Smithers and Co., said the easier money would probably not work down to the mortgage and auto loan markets right away.
"It is not likely to have any impact on those rates," he explained, "because they lag as much as a whole cycle behind the short-term changes. If it did have an effect, it would not be before the election, anyhow."

Actually, he said, the Treasury action in pumping money into the economy now will only defer an expected rise in rates. Bankers had expected the Treasury to need $22 billion to $23 billion in refinancing this summer. Taking this much money out of the system would have pushed interest rates up because there would have been less money to lend.

But the overwithholding of the income tax has given the Treasury some $10 billion to $11 billion which had not been expected. This means the government can pay off some loans with its own money instead of borrowing more money to pay the old bonds. As a result, it is not taking money out of the system. Instead it is putting money in. Any rise in short-term rates will not be likely before autumn.

As to what will happen next spring, when all this overwithheld tax has to be paid back in income tax refunds, no expert wants to predict.

"It depends on next year's budget and the election and too many other uncertain factors," one said.

Washington Will North Viet Resume Mining?

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Back in 1966 the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were somewhat active sporadically in mine laying in South Vietnam. It was apparently a hit and miss operation.
This reporter has come across a chronology for the Long Tau River, main channel leading to Saigon from the sea—from December 1965 through March 1967. Thirty-three mine incidents were reported.

On May 26, 1966, the Panamanian ship Eastern Mariner was mined while at anchor in Nha Be harbor and later grounded. On Aug. 23, 1966, the merchant ship Baton Rouge Victory was mined and grounded. Mines exploded near four other merchant ships, the French coastal freighter Mino's Del Mar, the SS Our Lady of Peace, the SS Elaine and the Danish ship ETMA.

A U.S. minesweeping boat was sunk. Also two South Vietnamese minesweeping boats and two river assault boats.
And that was that. Though it created some headlines at the time, the mining was erratic and largely ineffective. In most in fact in almost all of the 33 cases, little or no damage resulted.

Most of the mines were crude and unreliable. Perhaps as a result, from April 1967 to the present there have been comparatively few reports of mining by the North Vietnamese or Viet Cong.

All this is somewhat surprising. For one would think that in a guerrilla war of the type being fought in the South during the past decade mining would have been a very heavy feature indeed. It would have been a relatively cheap method for securing sensational results.
By contrast, the United States has in the past carried on some quite extensive aerial mining of some of North Vietnam's rivers.

The chief activity, until President Nixon's current mining program, was back in 1967, after Navy men had come up with estimates that around half of the North Vietnamese cargo moved on internal waterways.

On Feb. 23, 1967, the mining from the air was authorized to close five river mouths to barges. Excluded were the deep water ports of Haiphong, Hon Gai and Cam Pha.

The Navy's after-action reports said that traffic across these five river mouths dried up—and that Hanoi had given up the attempt to use these routes. Instead, the Navy men said, the North Vietnamese shifted this river traffic to trucks traveling at night over unpaved back roads protected by jungle growth.

The heavy recent U.S. mining of North Vietnam's major ports and rivers raises the question again on mining in the South.

Will China or the Soviet Union now supply the North Vietnamese with mines, to be carried South and planted in the approaches to Saigon and other major ports? If Moscow or Peking does provide these mines and they are employed by the North Vietnamese by some method or other, what then will the United States do?

Why haven't the North Vietnamese used mines extensively before? Was it because they wanted to escape retaliation? Or have the Russians and Chinese over the years been reluctant to supply Hanoi with effective mines? Though some numbers of the mines used in 1966 were Russian, certainly the numbers were not great, nor modern, but reports indicate that they were efficient types.

Tired Of Hearing Kids Say They Hate Their Parents

Dear Ann Landers: When I was nine years old I lost my father in a truck accident and now I am 16. After the accident my cousin told me I was lucky—that she hated her dad and wished it had been him. I told her if she ever said that to me again I'd sock her.

When I hear kids at school say they hate their parents, it makes me sick. They don't know what they are saying. Sure, all families have disagreements and people get mad, but I can't imagine holding grudges and not being able to forgive each other.

I hope you will print my letter soon, Ann. It seems there is a lot more hate for older people today than there used to be. Or am I wrong?—Quincy Teen

Dear Q: I don't know if there is more hate for older people than there used to be, but kids are more outspoken about their feelings. Every day I receive at least a dozen letters from teenagers who say they hate their mother or father—or both. I view this as a tragedy not only because the kids suffer, but their parents as well.

The best course of action is to try to re-establish communication at the point where it broke down. Sometimes the whole family must get counseling in order to accomplish this. If certain members refuse, the ones who recognize the need should go regardless.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is having an affair with his secretary. This has been going on for over a year, but I've been looking the other way, hoping it would wear itself out. I see nothing to be gained by confronting him, nor do I have any intention of asking him to make a choice.

Two weeks ago the secretary's 14-year-old son heard about the affair and told our 15-year-old son who promptly told his grandmother.

Now my mother-in-law is pressuring me to telephone the secretary and insist that she resign from her job. I believe this would be humiliating to my husband and place me in the position of having to "take steps" should she refuse. My mother-in-law also wants me to sit down with the two boys and explain the situation "objectively."

I've shed a bucket of tears over this mess and am confused and sick at heart. Advise me, please.—Insomnia in Idaho

Dear Ida: You've already had too much advice. All bad. Don't telephone the secretary. Don't have any summit meetings with the children. Hold your head up. Issue no ultimatums. If your mother-in-law continues to harangue you, tell her to butt out.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope it's not too late to put in my two cents worth for the mother with the two beautiful daughters who sat home a lot because they were too tall for most guys. I know who wrote that letter and I'd like to remind her of the time I arrived at the house and she told me in very plain language she would not allow her daughter to be seen with a long-haired gorilla. Then she shut the door in my face.

The girl was nice and fairly attractive, but her mother's mouth was her downfall. I never called her again. What do you think of a 17-year-old who would let her mother make such decisions for her?—62" In Alabama Dear 62": I'm not sure the girl "let" her. It sounds as if mama is the take-over type and she took over. I feel sorry for her daughter.

Law For Today

Q. I recently married a man who has three children by a previous marriage. He has hardly seen these children since he divorced their mother and tells me he has no interest in such contacts, but he refuses to make a will in event of his death, what will his children get from his estate?

A. If a man dies intestate—without a will—the law divides his property as follows: one third to the surviving spouse; and two-thirds to his children, including those of a previous marriage, who share equally. If there are no children or grandchildren, the widow takes all, and vice versa.

Foe 'Feels' U.S. Bombs More Now

For the record, even though it is not likely to change anyone's thinking about the Vietnam war either way, here is a rundown on the massive Communist military effort being carried out in the northern provinces of South Vietnam as reported by Aviation Week and Space Technology magazine.

The three-pronged invasion is the largest and most heavily weaponed effort ever mounted by Hanoi, says editor Robert Hotz. All but one of North Vietnam's regular army divisions have been committed to the offensive, armed with a vast array of new weapons manufactured and supplied by the Soviet Union.

These include tanks, 130-mm field artillery, 100-mm radar-controlled flak guns, antitank missiles, truck-mounted heavy rocket batteries and Strela shoulder-fired infrared anti-aircraft missiles.

In reply, the United States has mounted the largest aerial interdiction campaign since before the bombing pause in 1968, deploying an air striking force of more than 700 aircraft.

Many people wonder why bombing has been revived at this time when earlier efforts proved ineffective.

First, says Hotz, the bombing campaign in the Johnson regime was poorly targeted and air strikes were banned on many key supply bottlenecks by White House edict. There was never any attempt to seal off North Vietnam from hauling shipborne supplies from its Communist allies.

But most important, the scale of ground combat then was of a relatively low intensity. Today, trucks, not bicycles, are needed to move the massive loads of heavy artillery shells, large rockets and fuel required by tanks and by the trucks hauling artillery and rocket launchers.

For example, the North Vietnamese pumped 4,000 shells a day into the city of Quang Tri before its fall. The Soviet T-54 tank spearheading the offensive consumes 18 gallons of fuel an hour. Supplying 14 army divisions equipped with these supply-consuming weapons is a far more formidable task than the ingenious Communist logistics system has ever tackled before.

Again, none of this is likely to change anybody's mind about Vietnam. But perhaps it will give a little pause to those who say that the United States should simply withdraw and allow the North and South Vietnamese to "work things out among themselves."

For Concord Road

The Morgan County Highway Department started at 8-work-school estimated to cost about $15,000.

The roadway is about 1 1/2 miles in length and will be graded and resurfaced with a five-inch topping of gravel and asphalt material.

Most of the materials will be supplied by Illinois Road Contractors of Jacksonville and much of the labor by the Highway department of the county.

Highway Superintendent Jack Stovall designed the improvement for the section of roadway and the funds will be paid from motor fuel taxes.

The road was closed Monday morning but a detour is still open for traffic east of Concord, approximately 1 1/2 miles out of the way. Motorists who use the route regularly are urged to avoid the area during the construction period.

County Commissioner Chester A. Thomason said that segment of county highway between Concord and the school had been scheduled for improvement earlier this year and that some thought is being given to improvement of the segment between Route 104 and Concord at some future date.

Thomason said the half-slab highway under consideration shows the greatest increase of traffic of any county road.

Members of the county highway department will complete the job by grading the shoulders of the roadway to meet the level of the topping after it is opened to traffic. Motorists who use the highway should be watchful for heavy equipment and grading operations for another week or two after it is opened to traffic.

PITTSFIELD — Scholastic honors in the Pittsfield High School class of 1972 went to three girls, Mary Ann Beard, Donna Hallock and Jennie Daniels. The trio spoke at commencement May 31st. Miss Beard on Preparation We've Had in High School; Miss Daniels, Some Thoughts about Our Commencement and Miss Hallock, Things to Consider about Our Future.

Miss Beard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross H. Beard, rural Pittsfield. She is a member of the National Honor Society, Latin club, Future Teachers of America, Library club, high school band and was a speech contestant. Mary Ann plans to attend University of Illinois.

Donna Hallock is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Hallock of rural Pittsfield and also a member of the National Honor Society. She served as president of the Math and Science club and attended the Science Fair at U. of I. with a joint project. She is a member of Future Teachers of America and the Latin club. She plans to attend University of Illinois, to study special education.

Jennie Daniels is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Daniels of Pittsfield, and also a member of National Honor Society, Spanish club, Student Council and was senior class president. She will be attending Western Illinois University at Macomb.

Four seniors were selected by their classmates for Citizenship Awards, Brent Gaffney and Susan Smith, personality honors and Jim Jenkins and Jane Dempsey, leadership abilities.

Hugo E. Zoeller, 48, of Springfield entered a plea of guilty to a charge of driving without a valid operator's license and was assessed a fine of $100 and $10 court costs.

Roderick D. Boulanger, 25, of Thayer entered a plea of guilty to driving too fast for conditions and was fined $25 and $10 costs.

Paul C. Walden, 17, of Rockbridge entered a plea of guilty to illegal possession of liquor and was fined $25 and $10 costs.

Harlan O. Mason, 43, of Lynnville entered a plea of guilty to permitting an unauthorized person to drive and was fined $25 and $10 costs.

In other court action before Judge Gordon Seator, Paul Charles Pells, 16, of Manchester, Mo., appeared briefly in court on a traffic ticket charging illegal possession of liquor. The public defender was appointed to represent the youth.

He was jailed Sunday following an auto accident on Route 67, about 5 miles northeast of Meredosia. After treatment for apparent minor injuries at Beardstown's Schmitt hospital, the Missouri youth was transferred to Morgan County jail and charged by state police.

Pells was the driver of a small car that ran off the highway, struck an embankment and overturned on its top. The auto was reportedly stolen.

Authorities said Missouri police may be in Jacksonville later to return the youth to their jurisdiction on charges of auto theft and that he would be released to them at that time.

BLUE ISLAND HOTEL FIRE KILLS TWO
CHICAGO (AP) — Two persons were killed and another was injured in a fire in a suburban Blue Island hotel. Another 50 persons escaped down ladders, stairs and fire escapes.

The cause of the blaze Sunday, which did an estimated $30,000 in damage, was undetermined.

Killed were Raul Alvarado, 22, and Santiago Ramirez, 23, both residents of the New Market Hotel.

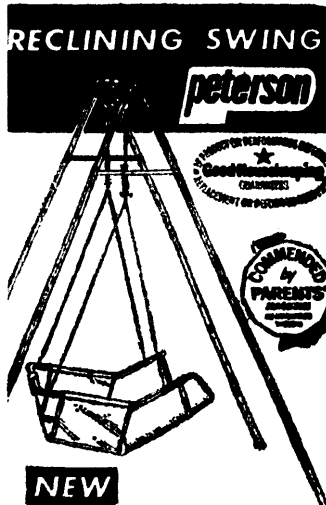

Frank Martinez, 19, suffered third-degree burns over 40 percent of his body and was hospitalized in fair condition.

The victims and Martinez were found in a top floor room of the four story brick structure, fire officials said.

Empty Building Late Sunday

Several local police officers worked about two hours Sunday night in an unsuccessful search for two subjects believed to be inside a vacant warehouse at 234 East Court Street, former location of the Coca-Cola Bottling plant.

Jacksonville police were notified about 10:20 p.m. that two subjects had been seen breaking into the rear of the building. And a short time later, a light was spotted on the second floor of the building.

City police, assisted by officers from South Jacksonville

No one was found inside the building and apparently nothing was noticed missing. The fire department was summoned to provide a ladder that allowed police to check the roof. But, no one was found in that area either.

The building was locked up and the search concluded around midnight, with no other developments reported.

Jacksonville police were also notified late Sunday night of a burglary at Pierson Beer Distributors on East Douglas Ave. However, no information has been released regarding whether a burglary actually occurred at that location and whether anything was taken.

Salad Bowl

Fresh Strawberries

with Maple Sugar

CHICKEN NOODLE

CASSEROLE

If you prefer, make this in individual baking dishes.
1 package (8 ounces) medium noodles

¼ cup butter

¼ cup flour

1 cup chicken broth

1 cup milk

2 cups diced cooked chicken

1 can (6 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained

¾ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Salt and pepper to taste

Cook the noodles according to package directions and drain.

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, chicken broth and milk; stir in chicken and mushrooms; mix with noodles, ½ cup of the cheese and salt and pepper. Turn into a round glass 2-quart casserole (8½ by 1½ inches) or similar utensil; sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup cheese. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until bubbly—about 20 minutes; run under broiler a few minutes so topping will be golden-brown. Makes 6 servings.

Oswald: "Some apparently simple hands offer a choice of plays right at the start. Sometimes all will work. Other times all will fail. When only one will work, it is important to choose it."

Jim: "Here is a case in point. West makes his normal lead of the jack of spades. The four-spot is played from dummy and East drops the deuce. South is in with the ace and must make a decision."

Oswald: "If spades are 6-1, he is not likely to make the hand so the first thing South does is to ignore that possibility. This leaves him two lines of play. The first is to go right after trumps. If East holds the ace of clubs, nothing is going to hurt South. If West holds the ace of clubs and East gets in with either the ace of trumps or by means of a diamond lead from his partner, the trump play won't succeed. East will lead a club and South will lose two club tricks."

Jim: "South can do something about those potential club losers before leading trumps. He can try to cash dummy's king and queen of spades for a club discard."

Oswald: "If East started with just two spades, East will ruff the third lead; South will over-ruff and still be able to make the hand if the ace of clubs is in the right spot. The spade plays would only cost him if the opening had been a doubleton."

Jim: "A good South will decide the discard attempt is the superior play and will be rewarded this time."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Cure Is Also Elusive

Cause Of Psoriasis Isn't Known

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Will you please discuss psoriasis in your column? I have what I think is psoriasis on my hand. What causes psoriasis and is there any permanent cure? If not, what is the best way to control it?

Dear Reader—Psoriasis is a common skin disease that usually causes rounded or oval red raised spots on the skin. These reddened areas are covered with silvery, scaly material. It is not contagious but tends to occur in families. More than eight million people in the United States and Canada are afflicted with this problem.

The cause of psoriasis is not known. This is part of the problem in treating the disorder. The rounded lesions most commonly appear on the parts of the body that are not normally exposed to the sun. Thus, the face and hands usually escape, although psoriasis of hands does occur.

Because there are so many skin diseases that resemble each other, it is not possible to give a distinct description of most skin defects. They have to be learned by recognizing them, much as the birdwatcher learns to recognize different birds by seeing them. There are several different types of psoriasis, but most commonly, they are not life threatening. The appearance of the lesions is the greatest source of their aggravation. Some of them have sticky surfaces and there is difficulty with clothing, and itching is usually the exception rather than the rule.

Psoriasis usually occurs in young and middle-aged people. It seldom occurs in older people and tends to disappear with age. Many of its characteristics are exactly opposite of the usual lesions seen on the hand and face with age. The latter are caused by exposure to the sun and wind, whereas psoriasis more commonly occurs on the surfaces of the body not exposed to sun. Because so many people have this problem, numerous therapies have been tried. Things which are successful in one patient, like antihistamines, will not be useful in another patient. Currently, one drug Methotrexate, is being used by a number of skin specialists. This medicine is more commonly used in treatment of leukemia, not psoriasis. There is considerable difference of opinion about its use in treatment of psoriasis and in the past it has been banned by the Food and Drug Administration because of reported toxic reactions. Many of the other treatments used for psoriasis are directed towards keeping the scaly scab

WELLINGTON (AP) — Cyril Chapman, 73, has just had his 80th child.

His present wife—his second—gave birth to 16 of the family. Ten still live in the parental home at Tutekahua, population 39.

soft, hence a variety of ointments are used. Strangely enough, natural sunlight on the skin seems to help a great deal, although great care must be taken to avoid sunburn in these individuals. An ultra-violet lamp doesn't seem to help.

There needs to be a great deal more research done on the problems of psoriasis and since there are so many individuals with this problem, an organization has been formed called the National Psoriasis Foundation. It provides literature for people with this problem, and is supporting programs to stimulate research. Individuals who are interested in obtaining information from them should write to: National Psoriasis Foundation, Suite 250, 6415 S.W. Canyon Court, Portland, Oregon 97221.

Some Footwear Useless When Fancy Ties Go

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with shoe manufacturers who make shoes with fancy ties, often odd lengths, but do not provide the stores with extra ties. These laces are usually so vital to the good looks of the shoes that when they break the shoes have lost their style.—NANCY

DEAR POLLY—First I want to thank you for the many helpful hints I have found in the column and then used to make my life easier.

I want to tell Irene who complained about changing typewriter ribbons that I use a pair of disposable rubber surgical gloves when changing my ribbon and then wash the gloves on my hands with full strength dish detergent.—ALMA

DEAR POLLY — As I do secretarial work Irene's complaint about changing typewriter ribbons being such a messy job caught my eye. Irene must be using an obsolete typewriter because I change my ribbon quite frequently and do not mind a bit. Mine has the ribbon in a cartridge so all to be done is destroy the old cartridge and slip the new one on and with no mess and it is done in a couple of minutes. Irene, the inventors really have been at work.—CAROL

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—I have a new sweater made of 100 per cent virgin acrylic fibers (Japan) that has a strong odor resembling that of a wet dog that has just had a bath. I have washed it in that well-known cold water solution for wool and the odor was very strong while the sweater was wet and remained after it was dry. Any suggestions will be gratefully received.—NADINE

DEAR POLLY—As a safety feature the new walker-jumpers for babies have a plastic sleeve over the spring mechanism to keep little fingers from being pinched. I have the older type without these sleeves so I unscrewed the springs and covered them with cardboard tubes such as those from waxed paper, foil, etc. and then replaced the springs. If such springs could not be removed the tubes could be cut up one side, placed around the springs and then taped in place. Some tubes may have to be cut to fit the length of the springs.—MRS. R.L.W.

DEAR POLLY—My husband is in the construction business and has to meet the public daily so he does not like to wear patched jeans. When his pants show the first sign of wear I cut a patch from the back part of the leg of a wornout pair and sew it inside the front leg. When the patched pair wears out I feel I have really gotten my money's worth. A dollar saved is like four or five bucks earned.—MRS. R.K.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea, Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

OLD STATE ROAD

Over 50,000 Drivers Fail

Last year alone, over 50,000 Illinois licensed drivers failed the state written examination. This year the number of drivers that will fail could jump to a hundred thousand or more. Experts say—"One reason is, that rules and regulations change, and even some good safe drivers just don't keep up with the new laws." If your license expires this year, you may be among the hundreds of thousands that will be reexamined in 1972. So if you're nervous about taking the state written exam, here's good news. You can now purchase your own "self-scoring" test papers, complete with questions, answers and road signs you should know for that important examination day. CLOTHES CARE TODAY

By RUTH E. HOWARD

Getting Ahead On The Job.

Again you have to have a specific goal in mind. What does getting ahead mean—merely a $5 raise every six months? Or does it mean moving gradually or quickly up the ladder to genuine career status—private secretary to the president, private office of your own—or whatever is your goal?

It is obvious that a too-impatient attitude and a too-driving nature in the race for success can propel you backwards through the door you came in. So don't let everyone know you think you're cut out for better things. Let them find it out. There's no need to hide your light under a bushel of modesty either. The important thing in your progress toward the better job you want is to get there on the path that avoids stepping on other people's toes. Remember those aching toes can retaliate by tripping you up on the way to success. So watch them. When you reach the top rung it's a different story. The eccentricities of the genius who is top man (or woman) on the totem pole of tyconery are not only condoned but admired. What you wear when you sit in the president's office has to be picked out just as carefully as you would for that first interview. Subdue that urge to buy that dress that merchants call the "hot number." Don't be trapped by your own desire to follow the crowd by wearing the last scream of fashion. This is the dress or suit that is copied in every price level and winds up in every third girl in the office.

When every other girl in the office has decided to wear her hair up or teased or straight to the shoulders—that's the time for you to achieve a new and distinctive look.

While talking with a psychologist, I learned that the ideal modern woman is one who has developed her own potential without losing that elusive quality called femininity.

Which is, the way I interpret it, the same description of an ideal woman in my grandmother's era.

Today's woman, I'm told, "realizes she has wide horizons after the children go off to school."

Today's woman "uses all the modern conveniences at her disposal in order to prepare delectable, nutritious meals for her family in less time, putting the finishing touches to a gourmet dinner while already attired in a party gown." (She's still cooking only now she's not supposed to look or smell like it.)

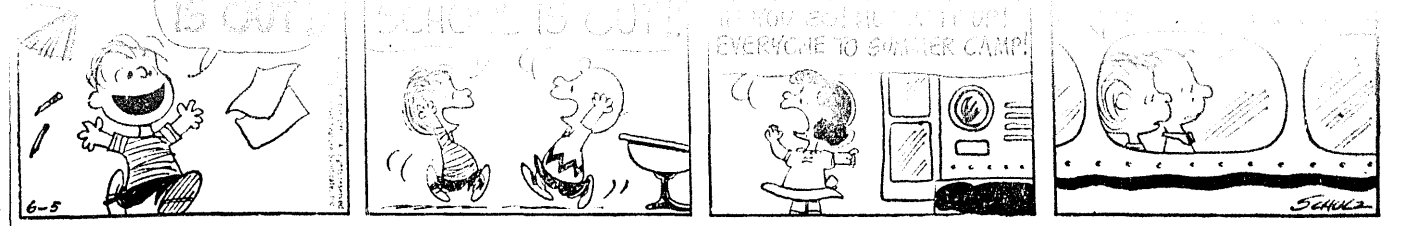

She is as "intellectually alive as her husband but wants to complement him, not compete with him." (If she's smart, she acts as if she has just enough brains to understand what he's saying.)

The "fulfilled woman" is adept at "holding an outside job in order to supplement her husband's income and provide a better life style for the family." (I see! Now she's holding down two jobs while he has one.)

She is "no longer gullible enough to believe that looking like a movie star is a prime requisite of a happy life." (Terrific! Now, if only her husband will stop telling her to fix her hair like Angle Dickinson's.)

Actually, it's difficult remembering the whole list of attributes of an ideal 1970s woman. Just remember what your mother taught you. Say "Yes" to him and "no" to everybody else.

From State Ask End-War Action

TOKYO (AP) — Two U.S. servicemen from Illinois captured in South Vietnam have sent a letter to Congress urging it to take action to end the war and negotiate the return of American prisoners of war.

The Viet Cong's Chai Phong press agency said the letter, signed by 15 POWs, was prompted by a profound love of country and interest in its future. But it claimed the prisoners believe the Vietnam war is a mistake.

Among those the agency signed the letter were Spec. 4 John A. Young of Grayslake, Ill., who was captured Jan. 30, 1968, and Pfc. King D. Rayford of Chicago, captured July 1, 1967.

Young's wife, reached at her home in the northern Chicago suburb, said her 26-year-old husband enlisted in the Army in 1965. She said she had not seen her husband since 1968 and "I have no idea about his feelings on the war."

Rayford's family could not be reached for comment. The Viet Cong agency said the Americans appealed to U.S. congressmen "to exercise their constitutional power to force the administration to return to Paris to negotiate the complete withdrawal of American troops and the return of the American prisoners of war and leave Vietnam to the Vietnamese."

Dickerson Calls Walker Charge 'Distortion'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The state defended Monday publication of a promotional brochure which Democratic gubernatorial candidate Daniel J. Walker said is bringing "a windfall" of business to an Evanston publishing firm.

Ray C. Dickerson, state director of business and development, told newsmen that Walker's charges in connection with the brochure were "gross distortions and half truths."

Walker said during a debate with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie over the weekend in Chicago that the brochure, published by Windsor Publications Inc. of Evanston, would produce $250,000 in business for the firm.

Dickerson defended the booklet as a "well-conceived, professionally executed program for promoting economic development in Illinois... without indulging in... political salesmanship."

He said the publishers sold only $56,495 in advertising and made only a "small profit" instead of what Walker depicted.

"Far from being a 'political promotion' the booklet contains not one single reference to the governor other than an introductory letter urging businessmen to locate in Illinois," Dickerson said. "At no time was there ever an intent to put the arm on any businessman."

A spokesman for Walker said the low advertising figure cited by Dickerson was because the firm "cut short" the sale of advertising after Walker's charges.

Although the contract between the state and Windsor specifically prohibits any pressure being applied to businesses, the Walker spokesman said, "you know that if they (the state) suggest you do something... there is some pressure."

"Vendors to the state are the likeliest targets and they have to worry about reprisals if they do not buy an ad (in the brochure)," Walker charged during the debate Saturday.

Ogilvie called such charges as "cheap... chicken shots" and said in rebuttal Saturday that he was not aware of any wrongdoing in connection with the brochure.

"STRIP FOR PEACE" BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Beside a "Strip for Peace" sign, about 15 persons held a nude-in Sunday at the newly liberated "People's Park" near the University of California.

A crowd of 250 pushed and shoved to get a peek at the undressed—mostly men from the Sexual Freedom League and Aphrodite Love Church.

Three Berkeley policemen elbowed through the crowd and said only five minutes of nudity would be allowed. One of the male strippers embraced an officer.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our heart felt thanks for the many kindnesses to us during our recent bereavement.

We especially wish to thank Rev. Deal, relatives, friends and neighbors, those who sent flowers food and cards or who helped in any way.

The family of Gertrude Coultas

he wanted to demonstrate that the governors would have communication with him as the nominee, and "easy access" if he becomes president.

Southerners among them said they feared a ticket led by McGovern would fare poorly in their region in the Nov. 7 election. But there was no evidence of a real stop-McGovern effort; Gov. Robert W. Scott of North Carolina said it was a little late for that.

McGovern evidently hoped to allay the concerns of governors who believe his personal platform is too liberal for the liking of Southerners and some Democrats elsewhere.

Humphrey planned to go to Houston Wednesday, after the pivotal primary in California.

The man who wins in California will get 271 votes for the Democratic presidential nomination. Eighteen votes are at stake in New Mexico.

New Jersey Democrats will elect 109 convention delegates. McGovern campaign managers said they expected to pick up about two-thirds of them.

In South Dakota, McGovern is unopposed for the 17 convention votes of his home state, in the day's other primary.

New Jersey's polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. EDT. But the count of delegate contests is expected to be slow, and it may be days before the exact outcome is known.

In California, where the candidates spent their time and money trying to persuade 5.1 million registered Democrats, a turnout of about 75 per cent of the party's voters was forecast.

The California voting hours are 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. EDT. There are eight names on the Democratic ballot in California, plus a write-in effort for wounded Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace. But it is a winner-take-all primary, and that means McGovern and Humphrey are the only entries with a chance.

In New Mexico, the ballot lists them along with Wallace and three others. The two top finishers will divide the 18-vote delegation on a proportional basis.

The polls in New Mexico open at 10 a.m. EDT, close at 9 p.m. EDT.

Wallace Shows More Signs Of Improvement

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — As George C. Wallace continued to show signs of improvement Monday, acting Alabama Gov. Jere Beasley took over the state's highest office and urged President Nixon to proclaim a national day of prayer for Wallace.

Expressing regret that the duties befell him because of Wallace's hospitalization in Maryland, Beasley assured the governor by phone that he would give Wallace's cabinet members his full cooperation.

And he said he would make "no major decision" without first checking with the ailing governor.

Wallace, who was reported improving from an abdominal wound as well as receiving increased physical therapy, thanked Beasley for his "cooperation and his public statements in the governor's behalf," a Wallace aide said.

Beasley, 35, downplaying any political differences with Wallace and expressing concern for the governor's health, said he urged the President in a telegram to set aside Wednesday as a special prayer day for Wallace.

He also made his first official act as governor in proclaiming Wednesday "a day of prayer in Alabama for the speedy and complete recovery" of Wallace.

The governor has been under treatment in Silver Spring, Md., since he was shot May 15 while seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

AUTHORITIES NAB BURGLARY SUSPECT

A residential burglary reported about 5:55 p.m. Sunday was apparently solved less than two hours later with the arrest of a local juvenile.

Lawrence D. Smith of 742 North Diamond notified police that forced entry had been made to his house. Smith said some items of jewelry and a radio had been stolen from the home.

Minutes after 7:45 p.m., police apprehended the subject believed responsible for the burglary. The youth has been identified only as a 13-year-old Jacksonville boy, who was picked up in the vicinity of West State and Church Streets.

Police have not said what action will be sought against the boy.

Israelis, Arabs Mark Fifth War Anniversary

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Israelis and Arabs marked the fifth anniversary of the six-day Middle East war Monday and peace seemed as far removed as ever.

A guerrilla attack in the occupied Golan Heights section of Syria killed one Israeli soldier and wounded another, shattering four months of quiet on Israel's borders.

The soldier was slain by Arab guerrillas who slipped across the border from Syria and opened fire on a passing car, military spokesmen said.

Israel's northern frontier has been quiet since February when a series of incidents killed three Israelis. Government troops retaliated with ground and air attacks on Lebanon.

In Israel and Europe airports applied rigorous precautions against terror attacks like that in Tel Aviv in which about 100 persons were gunned down last week.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said in Tel Aviv that Israel should consider introducing the death penalty for terrorists. Capital punishment is only applied to Nazi war criminals in Israel.

Declaring that peace cannot be surrendered, Dayan said: "Do not believe that if we want peace, we have to put forward the kind of plan that the Arabs want. That would be a plan of surrender, not a peace plan."

Israelis encircled Tel Aviv airport with a steel security ring, subjecting arriving and departing passengers to meticulous searches of their baggage.

GENEALOGICAL PROGRAM JUNE 12 ON MENNONITES

All interested persons are invited to the June meeting of the Sangamon County Genealogical Society to be 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, the 12th, at West Branch, Lincoln Library, 1251 West Graber has taught at Bethel College in Newton, Kansas and a Mennonite College in Bluffton, Ohio. He formerly lived in Prety Prairie, Kansas and attended grade and high school there.

GREENE DKC TO INSTALL SLATE JUNE 7

ROODHOUSE — A dinner meeting of the Greene county Chi chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma society, will be held Wednesday, June 7, at 12:30 p.m. at the Blackhawk Restaurant in Jacksonville, according to President Mrs. Charles Purl of Carrollton. Installation of officers will be held during the afternoon. Roodhouse members will be among area attendants.

Mrs. Faye Tadlock and son, Randy, Chicago, have returned home after a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Israel.

Mrs. Howard Hensley visited during the weekend with her niece, Mrs. Patricia Vaughn, Pittsfield, and attended a dance recital Sunday afternoon in which her eight-year old great-niece, Julie Vaughn, participated.

BIG BEN LEANS LONDON (AP) — Labor M.P. Marcus Liptons fears that the Leaning Tower of Pisa will soon have a rival in London's Big Ben clock tower.

Lipton fears the 113-year-old, 326-foot-high clock tower at the Houses of Parliament slowly is leaning to the northwest and one day may come crashing down.

Experts at the Department of the Environment, which looks after such things, say the world-famed clock with the world-famous chiming is settling and leaning but should be standing many years from now.

MURRAYVILLE THEFT REPORTED MONDAY

Sheriff's deputies investigated a theft reported Monday morning by officials of the Murrayville-Woodson water system.

Thieves entered the water pumping station west of Woodson by breaking a window and removed two outdoor motors valued at $450 as well as a gas mask.

The incident is still under investigation.

GLASS BROKEN IN PICKUP TRUCK

Some criminal damage to property was reported Monday by George Murphy of 144 East Morton.

Murphy told city police a small hole was apparently shot in the glass of the driver's side door on a Pepsi-Cola pickup truck, which was parked in front of his house from late Sunday afternoon until early Monday morning.

Murphy said he got in the truck and shut the door, only to have the glass fall out of the window. Murphy had some apparently small cuts from the glass.

Ex Champion Still Spends Swim Time

LOS ALAMITOS, Calif. (AP) — Greta Andersen, champion of women endurance swimmers for a quarter of a century, still spends much of her time in the water.

The 45-year-old Danish Olympic champion of 1948 poolproofs babies as a main part of her business. She's also training for a sixth swim of the English Channel.

Miss Andersen, who didn't learn to swim until she was 16, has set more than 80 world amateur and professional records.

She plans to end a seven-year absence from endurance swimming this September by attempting to set the English Channel record. She held it for 13 years until a Dutch school teacher broke it last year.

Her 5-800-9, 165-pound figure is just a few pounds heavier than 24 years ago when she won the Olympic gold medal for Denmark in the 100-meter freestyle.

She keeps in condition with constant exercise and her work, which includes cuddling children in the pool at her health spa in this Southern California community.

For the past dozen years, babies have been her business. She personally concentrates on children under 18 months, because, "the older a baby gets, the harder it is to teach. Later on, when a child reaches one or one-and-one-half, it has a mind of its own."

"Our objective is survival, to teach babies to fend for themselves, if necessary."

One of her pupils, 2½-year-old Pamela Goren, started swimming with Greta at the age of 10 months. Last week, she became one of the youngest to pass the Beginners Red Cross Skills test.

Her father, Dr. David Goren, said, "We have our own pool and feel it is absolutely necessary for our little girls to be pool safe."

Children are likely to cry when they are introduced to a big swimming pool, said Greta, in forewarning parents.

"This point is also the moment of truth in this business," she said. "This is when we ask, 'Who's going to cry now, or who's going to cry later?'"

"Once a child discovers he can crawl, it could be too late—tragically, for some of them at least—to be taught how to swim."

Miss Andersen says it takes 18 to 30 lessons for a child to swim on its own.

Now she's back in training, swimming several miles a day in preparation for what she calls her last endurance swim.

"I want to have the record and make it so good that everyone will have a hard time to break it," she said.

King Avenges Earlier Defeat In French Open

PARIS (AP) — Billie Jean King avenged an earlier defeat and won the only major crown that has eluded her when she defeated Evonne Goolagong 6-3, 6-3 and captured the women's singles title Sunday at the French Open Tennis Championships.

It was her first triumph after six years of competition in this tournament, rated as the world clay court championship, and avenged her loss to Miss Goolagong in the final at Wimbledon last year.

Mrs. King said after the match that both she and Miss Goolagong aimed for their opponent's forehead and that she was attempting to keep the Australian away from the net.

In a dozen years on the international circuit, Mrs. King has won the Wimbledon title three times, the U.S. championship twice and the Italian, German, Australian, South African, Irish, Argentine and Austrian crowns.

Miss Goolagong, who won the French title last year, had won every set this year in her matches through the semi-finals.

Andres Gimeno won the men's singles title with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 victory over Patrick Proisy of France.

The key game of the match, Mrs. King said, was the third game of the second set when she fell behind 0-40 on her own service, evened it at 40-all with a drop shot and volley and then got a service winner.

She broke Miss Goolagong's service in the first game of the first set and again broke her opponent in the ninth game.

The triumph earned Mrs. King, who has been ranked No. 1 in the United States five times, $4,000 while Miss Goolagong, ranked No. 1 in the world, collected $2,000.

U.S. Golfers Out Of Finals In British Meet

SANDWICH, England (AP) — American golfers didn't do too well in this year's British Amateur Championship, but they were still a vital part of the scene.

"We couldn't do without the Americans," said an official of the Royal St. George's Club which staged the event. "They bring this tournament to life."

"Just watch the interest when a good British player and a good American are paired against each other. A match like that always attracts the biggest gallery."

The championship ended Saturday with an all-English final. Trevor Homer, 28, who never had previously won a major tournament, defeated Alan Thirlwell, 43, by 4 and 3 over 36 holes.

The tournament started with 43 Americans. Only four of them reached the last 32 and only two—Kemp Richardson of Huntington Beach, Calif. and Dick Siderow of Westport, Conn.—made the last 16. Richardson then reached the quarter-finals, where he was beaten by Thirlwell.

Often the Americans played the wrong kind of chip shot to a green. They chipped high as they do at home—and the ball got carried by the wind into sand traps or deep rough.

The British do it a different way. They chip low and let the ball run on to the green. American players found the greens much faster than any they knew at home.

In the final, Homer twice eagled the 460-yard seventh hole. In the afternoon round, his 36-foot putt at that green started a run of eagle-birdie which put him five up and virtually clinched the title.

Marathons Complete Fourteenth Year With 186 Bridge And Pinochle Teams

The annual bridge marathon sponsored by the local Catholic Daughters of America had One Hundred Sixteen teams competing this year. Proceeds from this social entertainment are used to support civic and community projects. Gifts this year went to March of Dimes, Pathway School, Cerebral Palsy, Cancer Drive, Heart Fund, YMCA, Big Brother and Sister, United Fund and the Jacksonville Art Association.

Seventy teams have joined the Pinochle groups sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

All local players who enjoy cards are invited to join these marathons. There are groups for ladies, couples, and men. From September thru May each team plays once a month with one other team. Prizes are awarded for the top three scores in each group. Schedules are being completed now for games to start next September. Miss Rosemary Ryan and Mrs. Mardelle Fellhauer serve as chairmen and may be contacted at 245-8123 by those who wish to join. The chairmen are assisted by Miss Florence Loneran, Mrs. Gusse Murphy and Mrs. Dorothy Brennan.

Scores and winners in each division are listed here. Prizes may be picked up at the first floor lounge of the Knights of Columbus Hall on East State street on Thursday evening at 7 p.m. Those not picked up at this time will be delivered to winners.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA WILDER

TUESDAY, JUNE 6—Born today, you are not an easy person to get to know, for the image you project on the world at large is quite different from the one that comes across to loved ones and close friends, and, thus, as people get better acquainted with you their notions of you change, their views of you become, at least for a time, confused. Men born today are especially prone to be secretive about their personal likes and dislikes, their emotions, and so on; women, on the other hand, are inclined to bend too much to the wind in an effort to be all things to all people.

You possess a highly analytical mind and are very much prone to be supercritical of things in general. Never completely satisfied with the quality or quantity of your own work, you carry this same attitude into your relationships with others. Such an approach to your own and others' accomplishments cannot do much to endear you to those who may have labored long and hard to get where they are. You could do much to ease the situation, however, by learning how to temper adverse criticism with praise.

A definite and delightful aptitude for impersonation does much to gain for you in the matter of personal friendships what your analytical mind may have caused you to forfeit. When you choose, you can be an exceedingly amusing person—and you have the rare tact to know where the line between amusement and insult is drawn. You may impersonate others—but you are careful not to hurt them.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, June 7
GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Gather your forces behind you if you would win an argument with higher-ups concerning rights and privileges. Take a small lesson to heart.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Keep your main objective in mind or you may find that small matters put you off the track entirely. A good day for making up with a friend.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) — A profitable morning transaction may be misleading if looked upon as a guideline for afternoon activities. Treat morning and afternoon separately.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Channel your efforts along a single line of endeavor—at least for the time being. You may be wasting valuable time and energy these days.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — A day when self-confidence does more to secure your future success than anything else. Let higher-ups know that you have faith in yourself.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Dixon attended the convocation and commencement exercises held June 1 and 2 honoring the graduates.

DR. DOYLE AND STAFF ATTEND SEMINAR

Dr. B. E. Doyle, Jacksonville chiropractor, and his staff members attended a weekend seminar in Kansas City, Mo., along with 400 other doctors of chiropractic from the U.S. and Canada. The educational seminar was sponsored by Clinic Masters, a professional consultant organization which periodically brings its member doctors together to share knowledge of advanced techniques, efficient procedures, and research results.

Virginia's 1966 General Assembly designated the foxhound as the official state dog.

Angela Davis, free for the first time in 22 months, started planning a future Monday that may include a law career.

She slept late and spent the rest of the day relaxing after her acquittal Sunday of murder, kidnap and conspiracy charges.

Friends said they were urging Miss Davis, 28, a black scholar and former UCLA philosophy instructor, to attend law school. They said they urged her, through work in the courts, carry out her avowed efforts to "free all political prisoners."

Miss Davis, 28, had been charged in connection with an Aug. 7, 1970, Marin County courthouse shootout which resulted in four deaths.

The tall, articulate Miss Davis had acted as cocounsel at her trial and delivered her own opening statement to the jury.

JACKSON WAITS OLYMPIC CHANCE

His legs have earned him the chance at a shot to reach an athlete's dream, but Rodney Jackson still waits for developments to see if he gets a try at that goal.

The goal is a chance to make the United States Olympic track team and compete in the Olympic Games in Munich later this summer. The awaited developments center around the money needed to attend the Olympic tryouts in Eugene, Oregon, in July.

The Jacksonville High School graduate, a senior-to-be at Eastern Illinois University, earned the right to compete in the Olympic trials by winning the NCAA College Division 110 meter high hurdles recently. All NCAA champs are eligible and invited to attend the trials, according to Jackson.

JACKSON WAS seen here on television Sunday on a delayed broadcast of Thursday's and Friday's National AAU finals from Billings, Montana, finishing second to Melvin Bass of North Carolina Central. Bass won the 400 meter intermediate hurdles in :50.5, with Jackson clocked in :51.0. Jackson came in fourth in the 110 meter high hurdles with a :14.3, with Rod Milburn, regarded by most as the world's greatest hurdler, winning in :13.5. Eastern came in seventh as a team.

Of his junior year at Eastern, Jackson comments, "It was a pretty good year, but not the greatest. I didn't lose much, but the times were not quite at good as I wanted. In the intermediates I lost once, to Bass Friday. I had set a goal of :50.7 and missed it by three-tenths. In the highs I had several seconds, but never lower. I was not beaten more than once by the same guy. I had a goal of :13.8 this year in the highs, and hit it. I want to pick up with an independent team or club this summer, but will still run in some meets even if I don't. I will run the 220 and 100, as the hurdles are hard on the legs and back."

ON THE OLYMPIC trials situation, Jackson reports, "I am supposed to talk to my coach at Eastern this week. The AAU is trying to get the expenses of the national champions paid to the Olympic trials. If they don't, you can go and if you get in the top eight, they will pay your money back."

"I made the Olympic standard in the highs, but I wanted to make it in the intermediates. In the highs the standard is :14.0. I would like very much to get the chance to go to the Olympic trials and think I could make the team in the highs. It depends who is there, because some of them are going to get nervous. I think it would take about a :13.5 to make the team. They take three runners in each event except to the 440 and 100, where they take four for relays. Getting a chance to run on the Olympic team was one of my goals and dreams when I went to college. I figure it would take about $400 for the trip to the Olympic trials."

HERE 'N' THERE: Winchester High School's new head football coach next year will be Art Newton, an assistant grid coach and head track coach at the school the past four years. Newton, a graduate of Oblong High School and Eastern Illinois University who coached one year at Blue Mound, replaces Jim Taylor who recently resigned. Newton will inherit a team that posted a 5-3-1 mark last season. Dave Pfeiffer, an assistant at the school the past two seasons, will take over the Wildcats' baseball team next year.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE basketball hopes the next three years suffered a jolt recently when standout freshman Dan Little received his draft notice for military duty. Little, from Meredosia, was one of the brightest spots on the Blueboy team that won only two games last season.

THE POPULAR "King and His Court" softball team that packed Nichols Park last summer, will appear in Jacksonville again this year. The famous four-man team headed by Eddie Feigner will face the State Hospital Redlegs at the Pony-Colt Park July 9 in a 1:00 p.m. game to benefit the Pony-Colt baseball program.

FORMER JACKSONVILLE High School athlete Abe Brown comments that he is strongly considering accepting a full NCAA scholarship offer to attend North Texas State University in Denton next year to play football and run track. Brown recently finished second in the triple jump and third in the long jump in the national junior college finals for Lincoln Land Junior College in Springfield. Brown plans to run in several AAU and open track meets in the Midwest this summer.

JACKSONVILLE HIGH School may again be without an opponent on its elusive opening football date next season. Chicago Bowen, which had agreed tentatively to come to the Crimsons' field to open the season next campaign, backed out of the deal, according to JHS Athletic Director Bob Kraushaar, who now has a tentative pact with Polo High School and expects to sign the contract this week. The game will be at Polo, a school of some 500 enrollment 180 miles away, south of Rockford. The game would be only a one-year contract.

JACKSONVILLE HIGH cager Tim Olson, a three-year starter for the Crimsons, has decided to attend Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio. Olson plans to participate on the basketball team.

Padres Get First Shot For Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Diego Padres will open the regular phase of the two-day summer professional baseball draft which begins Tuesday.

The major league clubs will select in inverse order of their 1971 finish in the regular phase. The Padres, who had the worst record in the National League, will be followed by Cleveland, owner of the worst record in the American League.

World champion Pittsburgh will pick 23rd and American League champion Baltimore will select last.

Selections in the secondary phase were determined by a draw. The Los Angeles Dodgers will pick first, followed by Cleveland, the New York Mets, Texas and San Diego.

The secondary phase covers free agents selected in previous drafts but not signed.

Among the highly regarded prospects expected to be picked in the regular phase are pitchers Bob Grossman of the University of Maryland; Larry Christiansen of Marysville, Wash.; Dick Ruthven of Fresno State College and Scott MacGregor of El Segundo, Calif.

Also, catchers Richard Bengtson of Peoria, Ill., and Bobby Goodman of Memphis, Tenn., and infielders Dave Chalk of the University of Texas, Dave Roberts of the University of Oregon, Danny Thomas of Southern Illinois, Roy Howell of Lompoc, Calif., and Richard Manning of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

There are 510 registered Pop Warner Junior League Football teams in California.

CLEVELAND: Mike Epstein of Oakland is forced out at second but manages to break up a double play in fourth inning action. John Brohamer's throw to first was too late to get runner Angel Mangual. Oakland notched 3-2 victory in the game Monday night.

Florida Captures College Title, 5-1

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Jay Smith hurled a four-hitter and struck out 13 and Bill Dancy slugged a three-run double as Florida Southern dumped San Fernando Valley State 5-1 Monday night to retain its NCAA College Division World Series baseball crown.

Valley State jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Marty Friedman scored on Lyman Bostock's sacrifice fly.

But Florida Southern came back in the second with four runs, three of them coming on Dancy's double inside the right field foul line.

Mike Grove singled to open the inning and advanced when Jack Rhine was struck by a pitch. Grove was out at third when Mike Todaro hit into a force play. Reggie Ardis then walked to load the bases when Dancy connected.

The fourth run came when Dancy scammed across the plate at the end of the inning.

A's Ruin Perry's Bid For Tenth, 3-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bert Campaneris slammed a two-out home run in the 10th inning Monday night to power Oakland to its fourth straight victory as the A's beat the Cleveland Indians 3-2.

Campaneris' homer off Cleveland starter Gaylord Perry, 9-4, saddled the Indians with their 10th loss in 12 games and extended Oakland's lead over Chicago in the American League West to four games.

The A's jumped to a 2-0 lead in the third inning as pitcher John "Blue Moon" Odom singled and, two outs later, Reggie Jackson clubbed his 11th home run of the year.

Odom checked the Indians on just three hits until the seventh inning, when Alex Johnson led off with a double down the left field line and scored on Graig Nettles' single to center. They tied it in the eighth on Eddie Leon's homer.

Odom, 3-1, was relieved by Darold Knowles, who got the final out of the game by getting Leon (3).

Phils Struggle To Regain Form

NEW YORK (UPI) — Turn the clock back a few years. Turn it back to when you were 7.

You're no different than any other healthy, red-blooded 7-year-old boy.

You hear the kids on the block talking about this fresh batch of bubble gum cards they've just gotten in at the neighborhood drug store so you fish out that quarter you've been keeping in your pocket for this kind of crisis and you hurry up to where they're selling these cards because you don't want to get shut out.

Eagerly, excitedly, you rip open the wrapper.

You look at the picture on one of the cards. By golly, it's your father.

You're so worked up, so carried away by the whole thing, you can hardly say your own name. You've got to show this to all the other kids on the block. And that's what you do.

"Hey, look! This is my Dad."

The others circle around you, skeptically, curiously, the way all kids do. They inspect the card closely to make sure it really is your father, and then one of them, the biggest one, naturally, pipes up:

"He stinks, and so do the rest of the Phillies."

You don't believe your ears. Wars have been fought over less.

You're Bryan Lucchesi, an exceptionally sensitive, well-behaved boy, but this time you don't wait for any draft call.

You sail right in and pop this big kid on the kisser.

It is now one year later. Bryan Lucchesi is 8 and some of the kids in the neighborhood still haven't let up. Maybe it's because he lives only five blocks from the stadium in the Packer Park section of Philadelphia, or more likely because the Phillies have dropped 18 of their last 19 ball games, but now and then he'll still hear some kid on the block say, "your father won't be around here managing too long."

Maybe yes, and maybe no, but the Phils did make a move over the weekend when Paul Owens replaced John Quinn as general manager and that has taken at least a little of the heat off the club's field manager.

Bryan's father, Frank Lucchesi, manages the Phillies and is doing the best he can with what he has. What he has isn't much.

Some of those things the other kids say to his son bother Frank Lucchesi, but he realizes kids will always be kids.

What hurts more is that the Phillies started off so well, then suddenly plummeted toward the bottom, and what hurts most is the absence of the optimism shown by the entire club only a few weeks ago.

"Sure it hurts," says the likeable little Phillies' manager, a near ringer for the movies' Peter Falk.

"Especially when we started out the way we did. You try to analyze your ball club and you try to analyze your players. The big thing you try to do is keep the players optimistic and be optimistic yourself, especially to the press."

"A newspaperman was speaking to me about the club the other day and said, 'Frank, do you think it's possible water seeks its own level?' I told him that possibility and association were in his mind. Before the season began most papers picked us last and called us 100-1 shots. Maybe we were on paper, and maybe that was how the experts had us figured, but I can't operate that way."

This is Lucchesi's third year with the Phillies. Despite their record, unmistakable signs of improvement are apparent.

During Lucchesi's first year he stuck with frail, nail-biting Larry Bowa and Bowa gradually established himself as a major league shortstop. Last year Lucchesi brought along Willie Montanez nicely, and this year he's doing a fine job with rugged Greg Luzinski.

High point of the Philly manager's career still has to be Opening Day in 1970. Lucchesi had managed 19 years in the minors, this actually was his first official day in the majors and when he was introduced at ancient Connie Mack Stadium, the 17,000 fans began clapping.

continued clapping and then got up on their feet in a standing ovation.

Frank Lucchesi was overcome.

He blew the fans a kiss. Then the tears sneaked into his eyes.

"I had to bust up," he says. "It took me so long to get here and then when I finally did, it was a big shock. Something I'll never forget. The people in Philadelphia are supposed to be tough. Don't you believe it. They've been great. So are the people I'm working for. Mr. Bob Carpenter has been excellent. He sees me, he says 'stay with 'em.'"

Bob Carpenter needn't worry on that score.

No matter what, Bryan Lucchesi's father will stay with 'em until he falls down, and then he'll simply pick himself up and start all over again.

Is It Better To Be 'Has Been' Or A 'Never Was'?

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — Howard Kitt never made it to the major leagues, which may have been the best thing to ever happen to him.

In the fall of 1960, at age 18, he was signed off the Long Island sandlots by the New York Yankees for a figure in excess of $60,000, still one of the highest bonuses ever tendered by the Yanks.

He was a left-handed pitcher who struck out hitters with mechanical frequency. He can still recall headlines, "Strikeout Whiz Kitt," and he can still remember all those laudatory words, like Yankee manager Ralph Houk, in Florida spring training of 1961, saying that Kitt's name comes to mind first when he thinks of his hard throwers.

"And you know, one pitcher in that camp was named Ryne Duren," says Kitt.

"However," he says today,
"I romanticized that Whitey Ford was getting older and the Yanks would be needing a left-hander soon. It might not be me, but then again, why not?
And he dreamed of another headline: "Young Phenom Makes Club."

It wasn't to be. In the next five years, the 6-3, 190-pounder would pitch for Modesto, Amarillo, Greensboro, Richmond, Augusta, Columbus (Ga.), Binghamton. He would develop bursts in his arm and lose the fast ball that Ken Harrelson, at Modesto in 1961, said was even faster than another pitcher in that league, Sam McDowell.

Howard Kitt had also been a good student. In off-season he studied economics at Hofstra University and eventually graduated cum laude. After his fifth season in professional baseball, he decided that he was stagnating, having dropped from Triple A ball to Double A.

He recalled some of the guys he had played with along the way, who "had mud thrown in their faces" yet stuck in the minors despite being released from one team and hanging on by fingernails with another.

Columbia University offered Kitt a fellowship in economics in 1965 and he accepted. He gave up baseball and his big-league dreams. He is now a thesis away from a Ph.D., has taught economics at Hofstra and is currently a consultant for the prestigious New York consulting firm of National Economic Research Associates.

He is aware, of course, of some of the pro ball players
— the "Boys of Summer" — who struggle in retirement, having known little but baseball all their lives.

"Maybe that would have happened to me, too, if I had gone on to the major leagues," says Kitt. "I don't know. But since my career was king of shaky, I began to read more widely and began to become more introspective. I was no longer a single-minded about baseball."

His interest in the game now, at age 30, is still high. He watches games with, he says,
"a jock mentality."
"I love the center field television camera," he says. "I work on the hitter with the pitcher."

He goes to games infrequently but when he does go, there is a mixture of pain and nostalgia.
"For instance, when I watch Mel Stottlemyre, I picture myself in a Yankee uniform. I played with Mel in Modesto and Greensboro, and we roomed together in Richmond. I see Mel running sprints in the outfield, and I think, that could be me with him, since Mel and I ran sprints together a hundred times."

Yet Kitt refuses to dwell on these thoughts. What's past is not prologue for him. He has not pitched competitively since 1965, when he was 12-3 with Binghamton.

"I was asked to pitch on several Industrial League teams, but refused," he says.
"I want people to remember me as a hard-thrower, not some old slob pitching Sundays for some semi-pro club. And I don't want to be cannon fodder for some young guys coming up who want to make a reputation." But Kitt cannot help feeling fortunate in the way things have turned out.

Last season, Baltimore pitcher Tom Dukes, an old minor league friend, was in town and called Kitt to get together.
"I was happy to, but I felt some trepidation," recalls Kitt.
"We shared a lot of dugouts and laundromats, a lot of hopes, and a lot of problems, and I wondered if Tom would want to talk about those minor league days."

"He did, because it was a happy time, a time when the world was all before us. Now, Tom's curve in economic terms — is going down. And mine, well, I think I'm on the way up — in my business. He is concerned about what he'll be doing after baseball. And since then I've thought about Curt Blefary, another guy I played with, who has just quit baseball. Curt said he'll become a cop. And I see Roger Repz
— we broke in together — described as a 'veteran outfielder.' In my mind's eye, Roger will always be a 23-year-old kid playing at Modesto where actual gophers came out of holes in the outfield.

"But when Tom Dukes said goodbye last year, he said,
'Howie, there's no way in the world you shouldn't have been pitching in the big leagues.'"
"And for a moment, that got my juices flowing again."

This Town Won't Forget Its Hero

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI)— They're happy here about how local unemployment has gone down lately.

They keep talking about that.
They also talk about the fine symphony orchestra this city has and about how the mayor has ordered the arrest of parents whose kids get into trouble with their mini-bikes.

With all this talk, they could easily forget the local boy who made good, but they don't.

Summer is coming on now and they still talk about him even though he essentially is a man for the fall and winter seasons.

"You should've been here when he was given a day last March," says Ben Griffith, a sales engineer originally from Sherman, Tex., making his home here now.

"His picture was all over town. He was born and raised here, you know. He was a local high school star and married a Fort Wayne girl. I think they live in Florida now. He never says much. Sorta the antithesis of Joe Namath. His mother still lives here in Evansville."

Works as Receptionist Widowed and left with three young children years ago, Mrs.
Ida Griese works as a receptionist for Property Developers, Inc., on North Main Street.

Joyce, her youngest, is married now to a Navy lieutenant; William, the oldest, coaches the North Putnam High School football team in Bainbridge, Ind.; and Bob, the one you've probably heard of, quarterbacked the Miami Dolphins to the Super Bowl last January.

Mrs. Griese isn't at all coy when she speaks about her son, the football player, the local boy who made good.

"I'm very proud of him," she says. "My other two children haven't acquired the fame he has, but I'm just as proud of them."

All mothers are proud of their sons. Isn't there any particular reason why Mrs.
Griese is so proud of her younger son?
"Yes," she says. "When he was a little boy he didn't look like the athletic type at all. He was so small, so frail looking, but my husband encouraged him to participate in all sports and Bob took to them very well. Baseball as well as football. He played in the Little League, in high school and in American Legion ball. He was a pitcher and a very good one."

There are people here in Evansville who know Bob Griese as a shy and somewhat retriving young man. Even when he was getting ready for the Super Bowl test with Dallas, he was courteous and obliging to the football writers but rarely volunteered any extraneous information. He didn't have much to say either when Richard Nixon sent in that play of his own by way of Coach Don Shula.

"I've always tried to convey to my children there isn't anybody better than they and they aren't any better than anyone else," says Mrs. Griese.
"In other words everyone is created equal. That's what I've always felt and always taught them."

Bob Griese comes back here to see his mother two or three times a year, generally twice during the summer and sometimes during Christmas if his work with the Dolphins doesn't prevent him.

They Back the Local Boy
Before the title game with Dallas, if you liked the Cowboys you could do much better betting in Evansville than you could almost anywhere else in the country. Only because Bob Griese comes from here and these people wouldn't think of not backing a local boy—even if he was off in some exotic place like New Orleans.

You ask Mrs. Griese how she felt about the Cowboys beating the Dolphins there and she says, "Very bad."

"We'll be back, though," she assures. "I know we will."

What about Joe Namath?
What does she think of him?
"I think he's a great football player," she says in a way which shows she means it.

"When I say that, I'm not discounting my son," she puts in a moment or so later.

Ben Griffith, the sales engineer and a man in his 40's, is like so many people in Evansville. You can talk to them all you like about quarterbacks such as Namath, Roger Staubach, Lenny Dawson, Roman Gabriel, and Jim Plunkett, but they only talk about one. The only one for them, Bob Griese.

"He's a good hometown boy," says Griffith. "Bob always liked Evansville and didn't mind admitting that's where he was from. I know some fellows who leave their hometown and the first thing they do is try to forget they were ever there."

Dub-Nots Break League Record

The Dub-Nots established a league record in taking weekly honors Monday in the YMCA Men's Golf League at Nichols Park.

The Dub-Nots turned in a four-man score of 117 for the lowest total ever in the league.
The squad was led by Dave Eldridge's handicap 27. Following were Bud Vandiver 29, Bill Deaton and Mike Way 31.

Other team scores Monday were Linksmen 123, Spillers 124, Slap Shots 128, Swingers 131 and Toppers 134.

Best actual score of the night was Eldridge's 31, with Bob Schuett firing a handicap

Team standings to date are Dub-Nots 13, Spillers 12, Swingers 11½, Linksmen 10, Toppers 9½ and Slap Shots 6½.

To Hear Appeal
By Jerry Grant
Over 500 Finish

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The president of the United States Auto Club said Monday a three-man panel will hear the Indy 500 appeal of race driver Jerry Grant Tuesday morning.

Charlie Brockman said he would preside over the closed hearing, but he did not identify the other members of the panel.

The appeal, filed by Dan Gurney, owner of Grant's car, concerns a penalty assessed Grant for an illegal fueling on the 188th lap of the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 27.

Grant pulled into the pits because of a handling problem, and Gurney, thinking Grant was running out of fuel, stopped the car in the pit of teammate Bobby Unser.

The crew coupled Unser's fueling hoses to Grant's car for about six seconds.

Grant, who had finished second, was dropped to 12th place in the official standings, a difference of about $72,000 in prize money.

Gurney had admitted the infraction, but is appealing because he feels the penalty is too severe and there is no set penalty for the infraction in the rule book.

Brockman said the results of the meeting Tuesday will not be announced until at least Wednesday or Thursday.

NEA Executive Editor

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — I would like you to hear out this season.

Prologue: Martin Stone, chairman of the board of Monogram Industries, Inc., is a millionaire. He is 43 years old and in good shape. He would like nothing more than to be a big league baseball player. Unlike the rest of us with Mittyish fantasies, he has been able to do something about it.

It started with the Braves, see. I was supposed to be one of the owners but I was away on a bicycle trip when the deal closed and no one could find me. But they knew I was a baseball nut, so one of them said, "Why don't you come down to spring training at West Palm Beach?"

Well, I got a locker next to Joe Torre. Great! Then Paul Richards, he's the general manager, gets us all aside.

"You may be the owners of this ball club, but you listen to me. Don't let me catch you with your a— on a major league diamond. There's a field over there in the cornstalks. Run around and hit balls to each other there."

I didn't want that and was standing around looking grim.
Clint Courtney, the catching coach, was getting ready to catch batting practice. "Marty, what're you doing?" he asks me.

"Not a goddam thing."
"Whatta ya mean?"
"Richards won't let me work out. I throw the ball pretty good. Why don't you warm me up for kids?"

So I started warming up and Clint said, "Hey, you throw the ball pretty good."

I stand behind the screen watching the guys hit and all of a sudden they ran out of pitchers. Beginning of spring practice, they got to be careful Henry Aaron still wants to hit.
Couple of other guys. They looked around for coaches to throw.
They couldn't find Harry Dorish.

"So Courtney yelled back,
"Hey, Stoney, you're on."
I said, "No! Richards will skin me alive."

He said, "Get the hell out there. Those guys want to hit."
First ball I ever threw was to Henry Aaron. I looked in and I saw No. 44. "God," I thought, "what if I hit him?"

The first ball landed three feet in front of the plate.
"Cut that crap out," Courtney yelled. "Throw the next one right."

I threw the next one in and Aaron hit it over the trees behind the center field wall. I turned around, watching it go out, and yelled, "Foul ball!"

With that, I relaxed and stayed out there 45 minutes. Next day I showed up and Joe Torre said, "Hey, Marty, you made the ball club."

"What're you talking about, Joe?"

"Your name's up there on the list with the pitchers."
I said, "Stop s— me."
"Chrissakes, go up there and look."

Well, right under Tony Cloninger is me. I had to sign out with all the ball players. I went to Luman Harris, the manager, and asked, "What's the story?"

He said, "Don't you wanna throw?"

I said, "I sure do."
He said, "Well the guys tell me you throw pretty good. And we need batting practice pitchers." So I pitched all that spring.

The next year, I got to know Walter Alston and he invited me to come down to Vero Beach with the Dodgers. He also said,
"You can pitch in Dodger Stadium during the season. That way you can pitch all year long."

The last four years I've been pitching once or twice a week

would like you to hear out
this season.

Even during the strike, the Dodgers called me up and said,
"We're working out at Mar Visionaire. He is 43 years old and in good shape. He would like nothing more than to be a big league baseball player. Unlike the rest of us with Mittyish
fantasies, he has been able to do something about it."

So I said sure and went out a couple of days until Frank Robinson hit me in the arm with a line drive. Bullet. Almost got me in the head. Then Peter and Walter O'Malley said, "The Dodgers sell entertainment.
They don't want anybody using the Dodgers for political purposes."

I agreed. The stories had gotten around that I was going to run for governor.

and would-be pitcher, "that's out of the country."

Darwin's Double Keeps Baltimore On The Skids 3-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bob Darwin, who singled to launch a two-run Minnesota rally in the fourth inning, doubled home the tie-breaking run in the sixth as the Twins edged the slumping Baltimore Orioles 3-2 Monday night.

The winning hit scored Harmon Killebrew, who had reached second when Dave Johnson fielded his leadoff infield hit and threw wildly past first base.

Minnesota's other runs off loser Dave McNally, 5-5, came on singles by Darwin and Steven Brye and a two-run double by Eric Soderholm.

The Orioles managed just five hits off Dick Woodson, 4-3, and reliever Wayne Granger.

The Orioles scored in the third when Mark Belanger beat out a bunt and moved around on a stolen base, an infield out and another safe bunt by Johnny Oates.

Brooks Robinson opened the Baltimore fifth with a home run, his first this season.

Notch Victories

By The Associated Press
Bobby Allison says race drivers must stay busy or they go stale. Bobby Unser agrees.

Winning also helps to keep the ego above water and the two Bobbys did it in grand style Sunday.

Allison drove a Chevrolet to victory by more than a mile over superstar Richard Petty in the Mason-Dixon 500-mile stock car race at Dover, Del. It was Allison's 37th start in a race car this season and his 11th triumph, four of them major ones.

Unser, who like Allison is 37 years old, beat Indianapolis champion Mark Donohue across the finish line by four seconds to capture the Rex Mays 150 for United States Auto Club championship cars at Milwaukee.

Allison's average speed was 118.679 m.p.h., Unser's 109.19 m.p.h.

In other weekend auto races, Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil drove a Lotus to victory in the Belgium Grand Prix and took a solid grip on the 1972 world driving title. He now had 28 points to 19 for New Zealander Denis Hulme, who came in third Sunday behind Francois Cedert of France.

Milt Minter led from start to finish to give Pontiac's Firebird its first victory in the Sports Car Club of America's Trans-Am series for sports sedans at the Mid-Ohio Course near Lexington, George Follmer, who had won the two previous Trans-Am events, was second in a Javelin. Third place went to Warren Agor in a Camaro.

Pete Gregg drove a Datsun to victory in a race for 2.5-liter cars that preceded the Trans-Am.

David Hobbs of England wheeled a Lola T-300 to victory in both 25-mile heats of a race for SCCA Formula 5,000 machines at Edmonton, Alberta. Allen Lader was second overall and Graham McRae of Australia third.

Allison, surely one of the best race drivers in America, started his Chevrolet in second place at Dover and during the grueling 500 laps exchanged the lead with chief rival Petty 11 times.

Near the end, however, the transmission started failing in Petty's Plymouth and Allison was able to put a full lap of the one-mile oval between himself and stock car racing's only $1 million winner.

Third place went to LeeRoy Yarbrough in a Ford, fourth to Britisher Jackie Oliver in a Mercury and fifth to John Sears in a Plymouth. The latter three were at least 13 miles behind the two leaders.

The Milwaukee race was held up for 45 minutes when Johnny Rutherford's Michener Petrol Special crashed into the wall, spraying fuel and debris across the track. Rutherford escaped with minor burns.

Donohue's teammate, Gary Bettenhausen, came in third in a Roger Penske McLaren, while Billy Vukovich was fourth and 1971 USAC champion Joe Leonard fifth.

Allen Heroics Let White Sox Sweep Yankees

CHICAGO (AP) — Richie Allen doesn't know much about pinch hitting. In fact, he couldn't remember if he ever had a pinch hit before. But he has a philosophy.

"It's like chopping down a tree," said Allen. "You don't warm up. You got work to do and you do it."

Allen had work to do when he was called up to pinch hit in the ninth with two men on and the Chicago White Sox trailing 4-2.

He smashed a Sparky Lyle pitch for a three-run homer to give Chicago a doubleheader sweep over the New York Yankees, 6-1 and 5-4, before a gigantic bat day crowd of 51,904.

That Allen was in position to pinch hit was no accident. He had played every inning of every game until Manager Chuck Tanner decided to give him a rest.

"I'll save him for when he can come up in the ninth and hit a homer with the bases loaded to win the game," said Tanner between games as he explained why Allen was not in the lineup.

But after Allen clouted his winning homer into the teeth of a 14-mile-an-hour wind, Tanner admitted:

"I sensed he was getting ya little tired, especially after that long trip. He goes hard every game and doesn't pace himself. Also, I did want his bat on the bench when I needed him. I can afford to rest him in the second game of doubleheaders after we win the first one."

The homer was the ninth this season for the happy and rejuvenated Allen who leads the league in runs batted in with 37 and has been among the top ten hitters all season.

"Averages don't mean a thing," said Allen. "I've proved I can hit .300 and everything that goes with it. The important thing is to win and these were good ones to win before that crowd."

The crowd was the sixth largest in Sox history and the biggest since July 7, 1954, when the Yankees and White Sox drew 53,087. The largest in history was 54,215 against the Yankees July 19, 1953.

The three-date series attracted a total of 114,947, the most since 1961 when a three-day Yankee series drew 125,140. The Sox now have drawn 331,948 for 20 dates this season and are 16,480 ahead of last year.

Except for Saturday's 18-10 victory in 11 innings, all the Yankees could salvage from the series was a large take-home check and the continued hitting of Bobby Murcer. Murcer collected four hits Sunday to give him 11 for the series and 15 in the last five games.

But the Sox had forgotten Saturday's embarrassing loss and Tanner signed a big card in the dressing room. It read "Nice going gang, see you all Tuesday night."

Baltimore Lives Up To Nickname

By The Associated Press
They don't call the Baltimore Orioles the O's for nothing; they got 18 of them Sunday.

You know—zeroes, goose eggs, O's. The Orioles got nine of them—0-000 000 000—in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader against Oakland and nine more—0-000 000 000—in the nightcap.

The A's got 16 O's themselves but had the presence of mind to score twice in the first inning of each game en route to a 2-0, 2-0 sweep of the beleaguered Orioles. The double defeat dropped Baltimore's three-in-a-row American League champs into third place in the East Division, three games behind Detroit and one percentage point in back of Cleveland.

Elsewhere, the Tigers blanked Minnesota 3-0, the Indians turned back California 6-4, the Chicago White Sox took a pair from the New York Yankees 6-1 and 5-4, Boston defeated Kansas City 4-0 after dropping the opener 7-5 and Texas blasted Milwaukee 10-0. Baltimore has played 41 games and has managed to win only 21. One of the reasons is such feeble batting averages as Ellie Hendricks' .114, Boog Powell's .156, Mark Belanger's .159, Andy Etchebarren's .189, Don Buford's .203, Brooks Robinson's .236, Paul Blair's .246 and Dave Johnson's .248.

Catfish Hunter squeaked the Orioles on two hits in the opener while Rookies Dave Hamilton, Rolfe Fingers and Darold Knowles combined for the shut-out in the nightcap. Sal Bando's two-run homer off Mike Cuellar decided the first game and the A's touched Doyle Alexander in the first inning of the nightcap on a walk, singles by Joe Rudi and Reggie Jackson and Bando's double play grounder.

Detroit's Tom Timmerman blanked the Twins on four hits and Mickey Stanley broke up a scoreless duel with a two-run homer in the seventh off Bert Blyleven, only the second hit off the hardthrowing right-hander.

The Indians piled up a six-run lead against the Angels with Alex Johnson homering and pitcher Milt Wilcox socking a two-run double, but had to hold on to win. Leroy Stanton homered for the losers.

Dick Allen smashed a dramatic three-run pinch homer off Sparky Lyle, the Yankees' ace reliever, in the ninth inning to lift the White Sox to their sweep before a crowd of 51,904.

Mike Andrews and Carlos May delivered two-run singles off Mel Stottlemyre in the opener and Bill Melton homered. Ron Blomberg connected for the Yankees.

John Curtis pitched the Red Sox to victory in their second game with a seven-hitter after Paul Schaal's grand slam home run capped a five-run rally that enabled the Royals to win the opener. Tommy Harper homered for the Red Sox.

Texas kayoed Milwaukee's Skip Lockwood, who pitched a one-hitter his last time out, with six runs in the first inning and Rich Hand, Mike Paul and Horacio Pina tamed the Brewers on six hits.

PICKED ON SECOND TEAM
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Three Illinois college baseball players have been named to the NCAA All-America college division second team.

The team was announced over the weekend by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches. The team selections were made in conjunction with the NCAA college division baseball championships being played here.

Those named to the second team were third baseman Mike Allaria and outfielder Dan Cole, both of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, and shortstop Randy Trapp of Eastern Illinois.

NAMED COACH OF YEAR

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gordon Gillespie, baseball coach at Lewis College in Lockport, Ill., whose teams have turned in a 447-180 record during his years as head mentor, has been named NAIA Baseball Coach of the Year.

The announcement was made in Phoenix Sunday, where the Lewis team is competing in the finals of the NAIA baseball championship. Gillespie won the coaching honor last year and in 1966.

Homer, Triple Play In Hundley's Day

By The Associated Press
It was the best of times for Chicago's Randy Hundley, and the worst of times, too. He broke San Diego's back—and one of its bats. And he broke the back of a Cubs rally—and had a bat of his own broken in return.

The Chicago catcher, struggling to get his batting average back up to respectability and give second-string backstop Ken Rudolph a permanent seat on the bench, swatted his first home run in nearly a year and a half Sunday.

It couldn't have come at a better time because it broke a tie and sent the Cubs on the way to a 3-1 victory over the Padres.

Then, in the ninth inning, he slammed a hot grounder at shortstop Rafael Robles. And it couldn't have come at a worse time because Robles converted it into a triple play.

In other National League games, Pittsburgh swept a pair from San Francisco, 4-3 and 9-1. Atlanta dumped the New York Mets 9-3. St. Louis defeated Los Angeles 4-0. Cincinnati stopped Philadelphia 2-0 and Houston whipped Montreal 5-0.

"I was just trying to hit the ball," Hundley said of the Bill Greif pitch that wound up in the left field stands.

Hundley, all but sidelined by knee problems, is batting a meager .198 with just 11 runs batted in.

"To show you how things are going for me," he said of the triple play, "the third baseman is charging in, expecting a bunt, and the shortstop is supposed to break to cover third. But he didn't move and I hit the ball right at him." Robles snared it, tagged Carmen Fernandez as he ran by, then threw to second for a force on Jose Cardenal and Derrel Thomas wheeled and fired to first to retire Hundley.

Early in the game, Thomas hit a Ferguson Jenkins pitch, then let go of his bat, which struck Hundley in the knee. "I took his bat and hit the ground with it and it broke. I didn't mean to do it."

Later, Hundley bunted and was tossed out by Fred Kendall. Then the San Diego catcher on instructions from Manager Don Zimmer, broke Hundley's bat.

The Pirates, winning their sixth game in the last eight, slashed the Mets' East Division lead to 3½ games. The Cubs, who have won seven of nine, are six games off the pace.

Willie Stargell, who had four RBIs in the second game against the Giants, said the Pirates "don't think about the Mets until we play them. There's nothing you can do about their games so there's no point in worrying about it."

After eighth-inning singles by Manny Sanguillen, Vic Davalillo and Al Oliver and Milt May's sacrifice fly gave Pittsburgh the two runs it needed to win the opener, Bruce Kison limited San Francisco to three hits in the nightcap while the Bucs got 16 of their own.

Darrell Evans led Atlanta's 12-hit assault against four New York pitchers that saddled six-game winner Jon Matlack with his first defeat. Evans clubbed a two-run double and a three-run homer.

It was Old-Timer's Day in Los Angeles and 36-year-old Gob Gibson celebrated with a five-hitter, the 52nd shutout of his career and second in a row.

The Reds, edging within half a game of the first-place Dodgers in the West with their seventh straight victory, got everything they needed on Johnny Bench's first-inning two-run double. It was enough to hand the Phils their eighth straight loss and 18th in 19 games.

Don Wilson pitched a two-hitter for the Astros and Cesar Cedeno broke a scoreless deadlock with an eighth-inning homer before Houston struck for four insurance runs in the ninth to tame the Expos.

Sanders Shades Lee In Kemper

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — There was just a trace of a smile around the lips as Doug Sanders announced in obvious but restrained delight:

"I've proved I can still play. And I've proved I can still win. You can't imagine what a wonderful feeling it is."

The dapper guy had just scored a dramatic, one-stroke victory over Lee Trevino with a long birdie putt on the final hole of the $175,000 Kemper Open Sunday, confounding the critics who had written his golfing obituaries scores of times.

He'd been derided for his admitted playboy attitude toward life, complete with late hours and liquor. Purists said his unorthodox, short swing would fail him with his advancing years. He lost his exempt status when he failed to play well enough to make the top 60 money winners last season. He hadn't won in two years.

His 19th career victory, worth $35,000 and a congratulatory telephone call from sometimes playing partner Vice President Spiro Agnew, solved it all.

"When that putt dropped, it was like a blessing from heaven," said Sanders. "I don't know how long it was. Some people say 40 feet. Some say 20, but I think it broke that much."

His winning birdie on the 72nd hole, before a hugh gallery of some 23,000 basking in the bright, warm sunshine and sweating out one of the most exciting finishes of the year on the pro tour, gave the 38-year-old Sanders a four-under-par 68 on his final round.

His 13-under-par total of 275 on the 7,278 yard Quail Hollow Country Club course was a single stroke better than Trevino, who missed a 10-foot birdie putt on the final hole that would have tied it. Trevino had a 69.

Labron Harris was next at 377, with South African Gary Player, Australian Bruce Devlin and Cesar Sanudo tied at 278. Ray Floyd, Dave Hill and Tom Shaw followed at 279 in the closely bunched field.

Gibby Gilbert, who led the second and third rounds, went to a 75-281 and was tied at that figure with defending champ Tom Weiskopf. Billy Casper had a 282 and Arnold Palmer was far back in the field at 288. Jack Nicklaus did not complete.

Sanders played in the group just in front of Trevino and was tied with the dangerous, gritty Super Mex when he went to the final hole, a 448-yard par four, uphill and with a dogleg left.

Sanders drove the fairway and hit his second to a bank on the left of the green, the ball trickling down to the fringe, some 10 yards from the cup. He took 40 seconds exactly lining it up, then stroked it and raised a clenched right fist aloft as the ball dropped in the cup.

Trevino, pacing restlessly in the fairway while Sanders putted, ripped his second shot dead at the flag but didn't even hit the hole on the 10-foot putt that would have tied it.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins, with a string of 20-game seasons and a Cy Young Award under his belt, has only one wish.

"I wish I could pitch 40 games a year in this park," said the Chicago Cubs right-hander Sunday after a five-hit, 3-1 victory over the San Diego Padres. "I wouldn't give up more than five homers a year here."

Jenkins' fondness for vast San Diego Stadium may be related to the type of opposition he finds there. The hard-throwing Canadian has never lost to the Padres in nine career decisions.

While Jenkins ran his season record to 6-5 and lifted the Cubs to within six games of the New York Mets in the National League East, Padre right-hander Bill Brief, San Diego's most snake-bit pitcher, lost his fifth straight. Brief yielded seven hits in 5 1-3 innings, and one of them was Randy Hundley's first home run of the season.

The Cubs are idle today and open a three-game set in Los Angeles Tuesday night.

The Padres, who rise and fall on the bat of big first baseman Nate Colbert, got a faint ray of hope Sunday despite their fifth straight defeat and 16th loss in the last 20 games. Colbert, in the grip of a nearly month-long slump, closed his stance slightly and had two of the five San Diego hits.

Colbert singled home the only run the Padres scored of Jenkins, 6-5.

Hundley dissolved a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning with his homer. Later the Cub catcher grounded into a ninth-inning triple play, the third in Padres history.

Early in the game, Hundley was hit on the knee by Derrel Thomas' bat after the Padre infielder hit a ground ball. In pain, Hundley took Thomas' bat and unintentionally broke it as he slammed it against the ground.

When Hundley bunted and was thrown out in the seventh inning, his bat was broken by catcher Fred Kendall on instructions from Zimmer.

Cub manager Leo Durocher, unaware that Hundley had broken Thomas' bat, told umpire Stan Landes that the Cubs were going to break Kendall's.

"Landis told me that Hundley had started it and that we were all even," Durocher said later. "So I let it lie."

Stengel, Frisch Are Oldtimers For St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former managers Casey Stengel and Frankie Frisch are among eight oldtimers who have agreed to participate in a July 9 oldtimers game at Busch Stadium preceding a Cardinals-Houston Astros contest.

The two will direct clubs in a three-inning game which will include Joe Dimaggio, Charlie Keller and Tommy Henrich for New York Yankee oldtimers.

Cardinal stars of the past who have agreed to participate include pitchers Jess Haines, Dizzy Dean and Paul Dean. Stengel directed the Yankees to 10 American League pennants and seven World Series titles. He managed the Boston Braves while Frisch was piloting the Cards in 1934-35 and 1940-43.

Stengel, Frisch, Haines, Dimaggio and Dizzy Dean are members of baseball's Hall of Fame.

ABA Is Seeking New Sites For 3 Franchises

NEW YORK (AP) — In an attempt to solidify its league, the American Basketball Association is seeking new sites for its financially troubled Pittsburgh and Miami franchises, New York Nets President Roy Boe announced Sunday.

Boe said the ABA is considering Chicago, St. Louis, Anaheim, Connecticut and Upper New York State as possible new locations for the two teams.

Boe and Ted Munchak, owner of the Carolina Cougars, have formed a two-man committee to screen and interview applicants to replace ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph, who announced his resignation last week.

Regarding the shifting of franchises, Boe said "I am confident we will merge with the NBA. However, until we do, we want to solidify our league as much as possible."

Meanwhile, the Greensboro Daily News said Munchak would cease to exist after the NBA meetings June 5-16.

Citing an unidentified source, the Daily News said Munchak has been meeting with NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy and they have reached an agreement to allow six or seven ABA clubs to join the NBA.

The agreement is expected to be ratified by NBA owners when they meet in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., the paper said.

However, the Daily News reported the Pittsburgh and Miami franchises will be dropped and the Denver franchise will be placed in an arena is constructed.

Gibson Nets 52nd Career Shutout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ted Simmons, the St. Louis catcher, is grateful for a lot of things but most of all because he's a Cardinal—and thus a teammate of Bob Gibson.

"If I came up to the major leagues five years ago and had to face Gibson all the time, I'd probably be looking for another job," he said.

"I've caught him the last two or three years. They say he used to be faster. Boy, I'd hate to have seen him then."

Simmons' praise followed Gibson's 52nd career shutout, a 4-0 triumph over Los Angeles Sunday in which the veteran pitcher also hit his first home run of the year.

Gibson wasn't as thrilled about the homer as he was about his pitching.

"If I have to depend upon my hitting to win, I'm in trouble," he said following his 29th career victory, one short of the all-time Cardinal club record.

St. Louis, which salvaged one game in the three-game series, takes today off, then opens a three-game series in San Francisco Tuesday night. The Dodgers, also not scheduled today, will continue their homestand Tuesday night against the Chicago Cubs.

Gibson's victory was his third straight after losing his first five decisions. But he insists he'd doing nothing different now than he was at the first of the season.

"I'm not pitching any better and I'm certainly not getting any more runs," he said. "It just goes in cycles. In only two games have I pitched poorly. The others could all have gone either way."

In his last three victories he's allowed only two runs in 27 innings, along with only 14 hits.

Joe Torre also homered Sunday for the Cards, his fifth and only his second hit in 19 at bats.

Torre's homer, in the fifth off loser Claude Osteen, broke a scoreless tie. Dal Maxvill drove across the Cardinals' second run in the seventh and then Gibson spoiled an otherwise splendid relief stint by Pete Richert with his two-run homer in the ninth.

IEA Secretary Says Lottery Isn't Answer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The executive secretary of the Illinois Education Association says a proposed state lottery—which would raise an estimated $50 million for public schools—would not come close to satisfying the needs of the schools.

"School financing in Illinois needs a total overhaul, not another bandage," Curtis Plott said Sunday.

While any new source of revenue will help the schools, "neither the legislators nor the public should believe a state lottery is anything more than a minor piece of the puzzle of school finances," Plott said in a prepared statement.

Plott said the IEA, the largest teacher organization in the state, is proposing legislation to remove personal property tax as the main source of school financing. He said the legislation would seek to shift the financial responsibility to the state and federal governments.

Mourns Duke Of Windsor

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Britain's royal family mourned the Duke of Windsor Monday at a funeral service in Windsor Castle, with Queen Elizabeth II sitting next to his duchess, the woman for whom he gave up the British throne.

The service for the former King Edward VIII underscored the final reconciliation in the royal family controversy over the king's decision to abdicate to wed an American divorcee.

About 100 officials and family mourners joined the royal party in St. George's Chapel on the grounds of Windsor Castle. The much-married Henry VIII and other British monarchs are buried in the chapel.

Among leading officials at the ceremony were Prime Minister Edward Heath, opposition leader Harold Wilson, and the Earl of Avon, who as Anthony Eden was foreign secretary at the time of the abdication.

Two hundred other guests were seated in the nave of the chapel. Attendance was by invitation only.

The queen herself had been instrumental in bringing about the royal family's reconciliation with the duke and duchess, who lived in voluntary exile since the abdication. The queen visited her uncle, the duke, in Paris shortly before his death. She invited the duchess to stay at Buckingham Palace for the first time in the days preceding the funeral.

At the service's close, the Archbishop of Canterbury intoned the blessing and then four trumpeters sounded the Last Post as the coffin slid from view into the chapel vault. Finally, the queen and duchess walked out into the morning sunlight.

Interment on the lawns of the royal mausoleum inside the castle grounds was private.

The Dean of Windsor, the Rt. Rev. Laurence Fleming, conducted the service. Also officiating were the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, and the Archbishop of York, Dr. Donald Coggan.

It was one of Dr. Ramsey's predecessors, Archbishop Cosmo Lang, who was a main force in rejecting Edward's proposal for a morganatic marriage by which the twice-divorced Wallis Warfield Spencer Simpson could become his wife but not his queen.

The funeral service was not televised, reflecting the low key in which all arrangements since the Duke's death in Paris eight days ago have been pitched. Instead, the funeral was reported by one of the BBC's radio channels.

The duke's body was brought to England last Wednesday. The duchess followed on Friday and for the first time since the abdication stayed at Buckingham Palace.

Immediately after the funeral the duchess was to fly home to Paris in a special royal plane. The coffin, of plain English oak, bore the inscription "HRH The Prince Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, Duke of Windsor. Born 1894. Died 1972. King Edward VIII 20th January—11th December 1936."

Those on the left accused the court and the Church of England of hypocrisy in honoring a man they had shunned for more than 30 years. Those on the right argued that the scale of the rites was less than the ex-king's due, and that the royal family should have made him and the duchess welcome in England years ago.

The palace made no official answer to these charges, except to let it be known that the funeral arrangements were what the duke himself had wished.

Faith In Miracles

NEW YORK (UPI)—Singing missionary Lee Russell believes in miracles.

He has seen them happen in his long journeys to foreign lands as a gospel singer.

In Burma, Russell said in an interview, a Buddhist who had heard him preach and sing challenged him to pray for a deaf and dumb woman in the audience.

"I prayed for her and she began to speak," Russell said. "I saw a miracle. And I've seen many since then."

If Russell had not chosen to become a singing missionary, he might have become a star in the company of say, a Tony Bennett or an Andy Williams.

From Sailor to Singer He was a sailor on the Great Lakes at the time he decided to try his luck as a singer. In 1940 he began his career as a soloist in the Showboat night club in Cleveland.

He went from there to New York and joined Paul Martell's orchestra at the Acadia ballroom. In 1948 he began a television show with the famed orchestra leader, Vincent Lopez, on the old Dumont network. And he became lead singer in the Lopez band.

In 1950 Lila Ginter entered Russell's life. She was retiring after 30 years as a missionary. Russell was in a recording studio when Miss Ginter walked in to make some tapes of gospel songs to be sent to Africa.

"She was ready to record but needed a singer," Russell said. "I volunteered. In the middle of 'The Old Rugged Cross' I made my decision."

Lila Ginter went to the ambassador from Zambia at the United Nations, whom she had taught in Africa, and gained clearance for Russell to go to his country.

He also went to Burma, Zambia and South Africa on a gospel mission that lasted six weeks and covered 30,000 miles. "I had interpreters to help me," Russell said. "In between songs I would discuss the next song and compare it with the text of the Bible and tell the interpreter what the song meant."

Faith In God Even though his audiences in many cases could not understand English, they listened, Russell said.

"The people had a deep faith in the word of God and believed," he said.

Shortly after he became a roving gospel singer, Russell began composing his own hymns. Several albums have been recorded by Steepletone

Records in New York's Radio City Station.

"I've been able to finance my mission through royalties from these records," Russell said.

Russell's experience as a singer of popular music helped him considerably in composing his music and none of his songs are repetitious. All express his deep convictions and some are written in a lively tempo.

"There is a great charismatic movement going on," Russell said. "Teen-agers are getting involved with this new music and are taking a new attitude toward the word of God."

New Food Industry Jobs Going Begging

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Hamilton isn't one to fiddle while the government burns over unemployment.

"There are 75,000 new jobs going begging in the food industry," says Hamilton, president of the International Food-service Manufacturers Association.

Hamilton, a vice president of the H. J. Heinz Co. in Pittsburgh, made a plea for labor help as the National Restaurant Association opened its annual convention in Chicago Monday.

The need for workers in the food service industry is being stressed by help-wanted ads in trade newspapers and magazines and stepped up scholarship campaigns.

"But still, in this day of national unemployment concern, help is hard to come by in our line," said Hamilton. "The industry is a $43 billion business now and has shown a 7 per cent growth annually the last 10 years. By 1990 we think it will be the No. 1 industry."

The 75,000 job openings just take care of expansion, he said in an interview.

"Actually, we need 250,000 workers every year to compensate for the normal turnover and attrition," he said. "And here is some food for thought: We could use 17,000 trained chefs right now. The pay scales range from $12,000 to $35,000. These men are artists, like a musician. You can get cooks for $25 a day."

Hamilton says he can't understand why more young people don't get into the food industry.

"Maybe, you've got to have an appreciation for food as more than something that you have to eat three times a day," he said. "But a young man can go to engineering school four or five years and when he gets out he can't find a job. He could take a food supervisory course for two years in junior college and be snapped up.

"Our average top executive is 40 years old, has been in the business 13 years and in his present job 11 years. The income norm is $25,000."

Hamilton estimated that 300 junior colleges now have food service courses but their 15,000 graduates are just a trickle into the job void.

To try to satisfy the seemingly insatiable public appetite, the food service industry—which includes every business establishment serving food away from home—dishes up 750 million meals a week through more than 367,000 outlets. That's one eating place for every 540 persons.

"Just one fairly small part is the 25 million meals a day in the federally subsidized school lunch program," said Hamilton. "This will double, however, in the next five years as cafeteria impact grows. And it will be augmented by 20 million lunches getting free school lunches. A bill is before the U.S. Congress now for senior citizen meals."

More families are eating out than ever before.

"That's because more women are working and when they come home they don't want to work over a stove," said Hamilton. "Also, today's society is more affluent, and families are smaller. It's simpler to take out three kids instead of six, and much easier on the pocketbook."

"One out of four meals are now being eaten away from home," he continued. "Ten years ago it was one out of six. It's a whole new bag—and not a brown one anymore. This is a motorcycle generation; the day of riding around eating at all hours."

"It's a business touching all bases ranging from space-feeding on the moon to expense account dining in posh establishments. But still, with all the opportunities offered, we have to go around carrying a help-

Accord Makes E.-W. German Travel Easier

BERLIN (AP) — Travel to both East Germany and West Germany became easier for the 2.2 million people of West Berlin as a result of the Big Four Berlin Accord activated over the weekend.

East Germany's 17 million citizens remained walled in. Their hopes for freer movement hinged on future developments, starting with negotiations to normalize relations between the two Germanies due to begin in two weeks.

The 1971 Berlin Accord went into effect Sunday, 12 hours after a final protocol was signed by the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

As a result of the accord, West Berliners can apply for up to 30 visiting days a year in the East under the new agreement.

Symbolizing the new understanding between the Soviet Union and West Germany, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko flew from the Berlin signing to Bonn where he met Chancellor Willy Brandt and Foreign Minister Walter Scheel. It was the first time a Soviet foreign minister had visited the West German capital.

West Germany during the weekend also exchanged ratifications with Russia and Poland of their treaties confirming German territorial losses in the war.

Will the good new days ahead be as good as the good old days before? Well, it will take more money to pay for them if they are. Economic forecasters predict that a man who made $10,000 a year in 1970 will have to earn nearly $60,000 to live as well in the year 2000. Better start rolling up your sleeves now.

Folklore: If you cut your nails on Saturday, you'll go on a journey soon. Don't hire a maid on Friday—you'll both argue. A ship will have good weather if it sails on Sunday Wednesday is the best day to launch a new business, but Tuesday is a good day for that purpose, too. Don't move into a new house on Monday. Thursday has only one lucky hour, the one before the sun rises.

STATEMENT OF NONDISCRIMINATION

"THE WESTERN ILLINOIS POWER COOPERATIVE, INC., with headquarters in Jacksonville, Illinois, has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules and Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250, or the Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D. C. 20250, or this organization, or all a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed not later than 90 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations."

America Moves Up In Soaring Sport

By GEORGE ROSS

Oakland Tribune Sports Editor Written for Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — America, held back by decades of prosperity, is catching up in the international sport of soaring.

Soaring—don't call it gliding—is flying high and hand-some.

The ranks of America's soaring pilots have doubled and redoubled in just the past 10 years, to an estimated 25,000.

Even more spectacular has been the evolution of the long-winged and lightweight birds they fly, a change from the duck-like gliders of the post-World War II era to the eagle-like sailplanes of today.

The most exotic of these are the end product of a "fiberglass revolution" by aeronautical designers, beautiful craft with tapering wingspreads of 60 feet and more, yet weighing only from 400 to 800 pounds.

Flying without an ounce of power except that found in the energies of the moving sky, they are capable of soaring flight to make an eagle envious.

Through the decade dubbed "The Soaring Sixties" every soaring record in the books was wiped out at least once.

For example, Paul Bickle, retired director of the NASA Flight Test Center in California's Mojave Desert, piloted a tiny U.S.-built Schweizer to a world record altitude of 46,267 feet.

Ben Greene of Elizabethtown, N.C., and Wally Scott of Odessa, Tex., flying German-built fiberglass sister ships, chased each other all the way from Odessa to Columbus, Neb., two years ago for a jointly held world distance record of 716.95 miles.

Ross Briegleb of Las Vegas, Nev., holds the U.S. speed record of 88.62 miles an hour around a 100-kilometer triangular course, and is preparing to go after the world mark of 96.34 miles an hour held by a West German pilot. There are 100-horsepower light planes that won't do much better.

Bickle is non-flying captain of a four-man U.S. team entered in the International Soaring Championships in Yugoslavia in July. Greene is one of his pilots and Scott is a backup alternate.

Hundreds of America's best soaring pilots compete annually in 11 regional championships and the U.S. championships, scheduled this year in Reno, Nev., July 12-17.

The Soaring Society of America has 13,000 members who can earn international badges which the SSA awards for Federation Internationale Aeronautique, the world governing body of the sport.

RADIO STOLEN FROM PARKED CAR

Theft of a radio from a parked truck was reported to Jacksonville police Sunday night by Don Kording of 836 West College.

Kording said an AM-FM radio valued around $80 was ripped out of his truck while it was parked in the 300 block of East State between 2 a.m. and 8 p.m. Sunday.

This was at least the second problem of the weekend for Kording. The first problem involved a 1963-model car owned by Kording and his brother that was reported stolen overnight Saturday while parked behind the K of C Hall, also in the 300 block of East State.

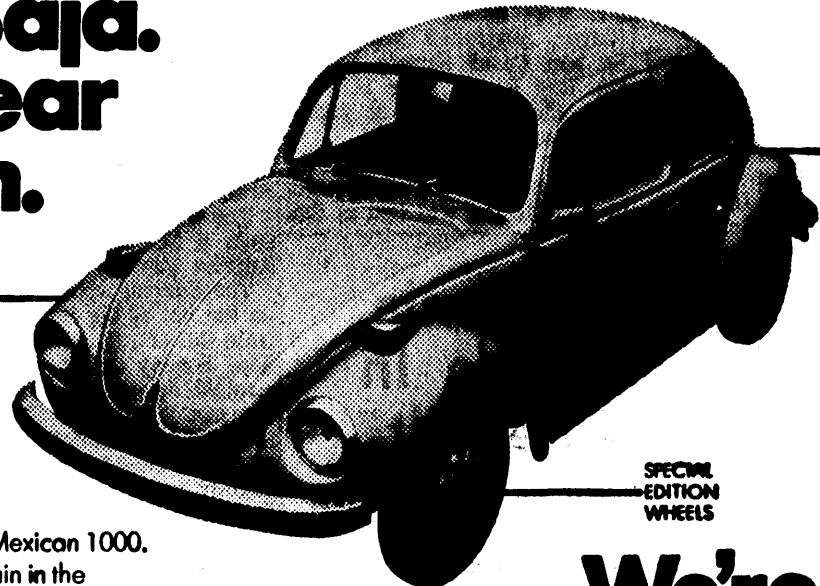

However, this problem has apparently been solved. State police located an abandoned car on old Route 67, about half-a-mile south of Woodson, and say it apparently is the Kording car. The auto has been towed to Jacksonville police headquarters for the checking of clues.

Both Sides Claim Political Victory

By PAMELA REEVES

CHICAGO (UPI)—Following a hard-hitting exchange between Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Democratic challenger Daniel J. Walker at the second gubernatorial debate, Ogilvie's aides said the meetings will continue. Both sides claimed a victory.

The governor had threatened to cancel future debates if Saturday's exchange before the Independent Voters of Illinois did not focus more on the issues than the first gubernatorial debate May 5.

But his aides, "encouraged" by the governor's strong stances in the Saturday meeting, said there will be more.

In their second debate, Ogilvie accused Walker of "reckless deagguery." Dan Walker said Ogilvie is a "political boss" akin to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley. But the largely liberal audience of 1,000 responded with scattered boos when the name-calling started.

On To Issues

Both men then moved on to discuss their positions on taxes, waste in government and gun control.

Walker's chief thrust was that the Ogilvie administration is wracked with patronage and waste.

His most dramatic move was to throw a copy of a state contract on Ogilvie's desk and ask him to cancel it.

Walker said the state Department of Business and Economic Development had contracted with Windsor Publications, a California-based firm, to prepare a booklet praising the state. He accused the Ogilvie administration of "putting the arm on Illinois business firms to buy ads in the book."

Ogilvie said he had never heard of the contract or Windsor Publications and accused Walker of making "a cheap hit" by throwing the contract at him during the debate.

Denies Pressure

On Sunday, Ray Dickerson, head of the department of Business and Economic Development, said no businesses were pressured to buy ads in the book and no state funds were used for it. (Windsor pays for the book and keeps the profits from the advertisements.)

Dickerson said the 60-page pamphlet was designed to attract new businesses to Illinois and was similar to booklets prepared in other states.

Walker also said he and Ogilvie had a "basic disagreement in philosophy" on government.

"A political boss, whether his name is Richard Ogilvie or Richard Daley, cares more about building a machine than creating a responsive and open political party," he said.

"I want to destroy the vicious patronage system that throttles professionalism in state government," he said.

Ogilvie said Walker's charges against his administration "are so irresponsible and so misguided" that he considers Walker "potentially destructive to the future of Illinois."

Went Ban Guns

Both men reiterated their opposition to any law banning the sale of hand guns. Both said they favored making public the names of campaign contributors, but neither offered to do so, unless the other did.

Walker drew scattered hissing when he said he is opposed to busing to promote racial integration, and against amnesty to draft dodgers except if they are made at war's end to perform an alternate service.

Walker detailed how he would cut $201 million "in government waste spendings" but included in that amount $100 million which Ogilvie has already proposed to cut.

Both agreed that such moves would result not in tax cuts, but in money being spent in more useful ways.

NEW YORK (AP) — Politics, profit taking, and disappointing economic news were credited by stock market analysts with driving prices down sharply Monday. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 7 points to close at 954.39. Declines on the New York Stock Exchange led advances by more than 2 to 1.

Some analysts blamed the drop partly on concern by some investors over the possibility of a victory by South Dakota Sen. George McGovern in the California Presidential primary Tuesday.

"There's some apprehension over the success McGovern has had so far," said Newton Zinder, analyst for E. F. Hutton & Co. Added Bradbury K. Thurlow, analyst for Hoppin, Watson Inc. "Wall Street is very averse to experimenting with the economy as McGovern proposed."

News that inflation and unemployment last month were at about the same rate as they were before economic controls were imposed last August was cited as another depressant by analysts.

The losers included airlines, drugs, electronics, metals and glamour issues. All other groups were mixed.

The most-active issue was American Airlines, off 1 1/2 at 43 1/2 on a volume of 391,000 shares. A 261,000-share block of the issue—the largest of the session—traded at 41 1/2.

Other issues in the most-active list included Curtiss Wright, off 2 1/2 at 39 1/2; UAL Inc., off 2 1/2 at 45 1/2; Delta Air Lines, off 2 1/2 at 53; and Braniff Airways, off 1/2 at 17 1/2.

Of the 1,757 issues traded on the Big Board, 986 declined and 438 advanced. New yearly lows were reached by 72 issues and highs by 26.

Of the 1,211 issues traded on the American Stock Exchange, 647 declined, and 269 advanced. Big Board turnover declined to 13.45 million shares from 15.41 million shares Friday. On the American Stock Exchange, volume rose to 4.63 million

ABERNATHY ASKS REMOVAL OF NIXON FROM WHITE HOUSE

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, has called for the removal from the White House of President Nixon.

Abernathy said the SCLC considers the administration to be anti-black, anti-young and anti-poor.

The Rev. Mr. Abernathy made his remarks over the weekend at a Solidarity Day rally of 300 persons sponsored by the United Front, a predominantly black civil rights organization in Cairo.

He said also his organization may become formally associated with the United Front.

Abernathy said he would continue to support Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., in her bid for the presidency but the SCLC will not endorse a candidate until the political conventions have ended.

Abernathy said that he and the Rev. Charles Koen, head of the Front, are discussing some programs which may bring the two groups to a closer relationship.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Good news about prices is rare today, for in defiance of all the powers of the land, those prices seem to have a plan and a course of their own.

Farmers will be happy because the prices they receive have been rising in recent weeks. And the highly regarded Wharton School economists might foresee a drop in the inflation rate for the remainder of the year.

For the most part, however, there is growing distress about this economic virus which apparently accommodates itself, like the flu, to man's most sophisticated defenses.

Perhaps the most significant comment on the situation was delivered in two words by Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. It's "a problem," he said.

This seemingly meaningless comment followed an announcement that wholesale food prices had resumed their climb in May, by six-tenths of a percent, or five-tenths of a percent on a seasonal basis, or about 6 percent on an annual basis.

But not to be forgotten is that this is the same man who, when presented during previous months with the most discouraging economic reports almost always responded by saying he was encouraged.

Now, however, there is a sense among ordinary Americans that time is running out—that results of the economic controls, if they were to come with any significance, would be here by now. But few signs are apparent.

Instead, Americans are asked to have faith that in the future price rises will indeed begin to moderate. But to maintain that faith, one must ignore the natural sequence of higher retail prices following higher wholesale prices.

Those who operate the computer models of the economy or who otherwise involve themselves in scientific analysis claim they do not have to rely on faith. They insist that the numbers forecast a cooloff.

At Wharton, for example, they believe the inflation rate for the remainder of the year should be about 3.6 percent, "and it is a long time since the American economy has moved in that range."

But it should be remembered that similar forecasts have been made by other scholarly analysts and have proved to be overly optimistic. The freeze has been over for more than six months now and results are disappointing. A strong impact had been hoped for within four months.

Ironically, there does seem to be a broad consensus among professional economists that, except for inflation and an equally stubborn 5.9 percent jobless rate, the economy is booming.

But even Wharton, while optimistic about prices for the rest of the year, sees a possible resurgence of inflation to 4 percent by the end of 1973.

In fact, it even hedges its forecast with the suggestion that price rises might be so unsatisfactory as to call for stronger controls.

There is, it appears, something mysterious, something still inadequately understood about the inflation virus. That much may be assumed when Stein admits to "a problem."

What Makes Difference In Agent-Arranged Trip?

By CARLTON SMITH

Droves of disillusioned vacationers return home every year crying for the blood of the travel agent who sold them on that rotten packaged tour. Others come back happy as a man whose stock has just gone up 20 points, and besides inflicting their color slides on you will press the name of their agent upon you as if they'd found a doctor who makes house calls.

What makes the difference? How can you avoid the woeful experience of spending all that money to buy two or three weeks of happiness and reaping only rue, along with the devout wish that your travel agent should drop dead in the garbage dump?

There are two reasons, in the main, for agent-arranged vacations that prove to be disappointments. One is that you were dealing with an agent who, to put it charitably, perhaps should be in some other line of business.

Just as there are differences among violinists, mathematicians, horse trainers and baseball players, so it is with travel agents. Some are better than others. You don't have to pass any proficiency tests to become one; anybody can put a sign in the window saying he's a travel agent. There are at least five franchise organizations that will set you up in the business.

Agents work in one of two ways. If you have your own vacation plan, an agent will work out your travel schedule and make the reservations, and arrange your hotel accommodations. Or you can buy a packaged tour, which some wholesaler has probably put together, the agent acting as a middleman retailer. An experienced agent who really knows the travel business has a lot of expertise to put at your disposal.

One who's little more than a sales clerk, offering an array of someone else's packaged tours, is only going to provide you with whatever you buy.

This brings us to the second reason why vacationers may return soured on what the agent sold them. They simply bought the wrong package, didn't know enough about what they were buying, didn't ask enough questions, and expected too much.

Summer Sessions Start Next Week At City Council

Summer sessions at the Jacksonville city council will begin next week with meetings set for the second and fourth Monday of the month during June, July and August.

That measure passed over three negative votes cast by Aldermen Quinn, Votsmier, and Bove.

Traditionally, council members meet twice monthly during July and August. A relatively light agenda prompted the move Monday evening for an extension into June of the summer schedule. The move eliminates only one meeting this month, however, on the 19th.

Alderman Don Votsmier said he was opposed to the move because of "several important items which must be dealt with during the immediate future."

Firemen Promoted
Five Jacksonville firemen have been promoted according to information released by Clarence Scott, chairman of the public protection committee. Scott said the promotions of Fred Bertram, Ron (Pewee) Campbell and Byron (Sonny) Campbell now hold the rank of lieutenant and that Harry Coop and Harold Cook were advanced to drivers.

The two Campbells are firemen almost by family heritage. Their father, the late Byron (Humpy) Campbell, served with distinction as a fireman for many years. The heritage was so strong that their brother-in-law, Harvey Dean, also became a fireman and is now an assistant chief.

The promotions were given on the basis of exams administered by the board of police and fire commissioners.

One bid was received for repairs at the Jones Street lift station. The bid was received from Caldwell Engineering Co. for $5,569 with an estimated ten working days for completion when the special materials arrive on the job site. The matter was passed to committee for evaluation.

A no-parking ordinance covering the north side of East Michigan from Hardin to Mobil Chemical Co. was removed from the table and passed on second and final reading. The ordinance was tabled last week and removed from the table over the negative votes of Aldermen Quinn and DeFrates. The final reading was passed over the negative vote of DeFrates.

Objections to the ordinance were interpreted by the council as objections to zoning and not affecting the parking on Michigan.

The law firm of Flynn and Flynn was authorized as special attorneys for editing and review of the new city codification of all ordinances. The firm will be paid on an hourly rate as specified by the bar association and it is expected to take two or three days initially, followed by a day or so in the fall.

R. W. Roach Mechanical Construction, Inc., received payment of $16,147.04 by council action for work and materials on the City Place and Short Morton water line.

Big Garage Sale
The council approved a request from the Jacksonville Band Parents Association to use central park Saturday, June 10, for what may be the largest garage sale in town. The band parents will set up booths in the park during the day with the proceeds from the sale going to finance sending students to summer band camps.

Part of the program is funded by the band parents through money-making projects such as a chicken fry and sale of candy from time to time, including the garage sale. No funds are paid from District 117 tax funds to send students to summer camp. Uniforms for the high school marching and concert bands are also paid, in part, by the band parents.

No Reports Given
Reports from the water and electric department concerning what plan of action might be considered to remedy the continued loss of revenue were not given during the council session. Alderman Don Votsmier had requested a report from both departments about ten days ago but got no response.

Alderman Earl Davis, chairman of the electric committee, said Utilities Superintendent Robert Jameson was in the hospital suffering an illness and was unable to supply him with adequate figures for the report. He said Jameson was expected to return to the job soon and that he would work on it.

Jameson was taken to the hospital last Saturday. Votsmier also questioned Mayor Dan F. Lahey on what progress had been made toward appointment of a citizens advisory committee on utilities. Mayor Lahey said he had not made any appointments but indicated that it was still under consideration. He would not comment further.

Ernie Stainton, Chamber of Commerce executive, described a pilot program in which the city and other aspects of the community will cooperate to identify and recommend solutions to problems. Stainton said he would expect a report by the end of June. The task force begins work Tuesday.

The problem of more roof area and more paved parking with resulting water run-off during rains was discussed briefly in its application to ISD and a natural waterway from State Street to Lafayette. Engineer Richard Casler explained that his examination indicated that the city has no legal obligation, as such. He said the water was running as it always had, but in greater volume because of the new buildings.

Alderman Jimmie Fernandes said he had a meeting scheduled with ISD officials and others from Springfield to discuss the problem. Fernandes said most of the problem could be eliminated by grading a large open ditch.

A spokesman for Lahey Implement and Machine Co., at 107 Johnson Street asked for council assistance to provide their business with a water source. City officials said they would consult with the owners and provide a special assessment if necessary. Members of the council pointed out that the city does not run water without a special assessment.

Await Autopsy Results In Infant's Death

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Authorities Monday were waiting for the results of an autopsy to see if they could find who left an infant to perish in a ditch near railroad tracks on Springfield's East side.

The infant's body—so decomposed that its sex, race and age could not be determined—was found in the ditch Saturday near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks.

The body was found by a passerby who said he first thought it was an animal. He flagged down an ambulance and the driver notified police, Richter said.

Police were waiting for a state crime lab report on towels and a sack found near the body.

Dr. Grant Johnson, a pathologist at the hospital, said the baby was "a full term infant" whose body had been mutilated by animals.

Rescue Squad Called Monday

The city rescue squad was summoned to the Hoots Sheltered Care Home about 12:50 p.m. Monday.

Debbie Winters, 20, an employee of the home was preparing to use a garbage disposal when her left arm became lodged in the disposal while trying to remove a spoon which had apparently fallen into the machine.

The rescue squad dismantled the disposal and freed the girl's arm. She then fainted and was rushed to Passavant hospital where she was treated for shock and released.

TO PLAN SUMMER ECOLOGY PROJECTS FOR AREA YOUTH

HIPS (housewives interested in pollution solution) is sponsoring a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday evening, June 6th, in the board room at Passavant hospital, basement level floor. The session is primarily for young people 14 to 20 years, out of school for summer months and interested in ecology projects in the Jacksonville area, but all interested persons are cordially invited.

Zoning Storm Splits South Jacksonville

By DENNIS YOCOM
The planning commission of South Jacksonville met at 7 o'clock Monday night for discussion on Lowell DeLong's controversial proposal of a 236 unit mobile home park at the southeast corner of Lincoln and Greenwood.

DeLong proposed that the plans commission grant him a special use permit for his 20-acre development and send their recommendation on to the city council. But the village property owners were out in force as a standing room only crowd packed the village hall, its entrance and the area around the doorway.

Engineer for the developer, Edgar Bobb, fielded questions as the committee chairman asked for comments from around the room. Village representative Bill Smith began the discussion by stating the present sewer system of the area would be insufficient to handle the increased flow of water running off from the trailer park. He went on to say that the home owners did not want the increased flow of traffic that the park would create on Lincoln Avenue nor would their tax dollars support the increased pupil load on the school system that 750 people would bring in.

His points were well supported by villagers as opposition arose from every point in the hall. Common among the complaints was the belief the home owners would pay the bulk of the tax load for the trailer park. One villager cited a tax figure of $40 to $50 per year for each trailer pad in comparison with $450 per year for the average home in the area.

Another of the chief complaints was the fact that Mr. DeLong had supposedly promised the home owners that 200 new houses would be built in the area. Many property owners said if they would have known in advance of plans for a trailer court, they would have never moved to the area in the first place.

It seemed to boil down to the belief of each home owner that it was "our home against his (DeLong's)."

The commission adjourned at 8:30 p.m. for a 10-minute private discussion and emerged promptly at 8:40 p.m. with a call for last comments. Although Mr. Bobb assured the villagers that the park would have to conform to stringent state and village regulations governing mobile parks, they were firm in their resolved opposition. Mr. DeLong who was given the last word by the commission chairman declined to comment in the face of the overwhelming resistance.

The commission members introduced a motion to refuse the proposal which was passed 5 to 1 with Mr. Fanning casting the only negative vote. An immediate flourish of applause arose from a predominately female gathering at the rear of the hall and the meeting was adjourned.

Senate Group Blasts State Election Code

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The proposed new Illinois election code was attacked in a Senate committee meeting Monday as a blockade to newly won voter rights and a handcuff for a new state board of elections.

However, favorable witnesses said consolidation of state elections, a chief goal of the new code, would save $14 million to $21 million a year.

Roger Levin of Chicago's spokesman for the Independent Voters of Illinois, said the proposed new code violates state and federal institutions and is so specific as to tie the hands of a new state board of elections.

Stanley T. Kusper Jr., chairman of the Chicago Board of Election Commissioners and a staff member of the commission which drafted the code, challenged Levin's assertions.

Kusper said Levin referred to rulings of unconstitutionality by federal courts.

But Kusper said the rulings about changing registration with a political party and about residency requirements were under appeal and were not effective as law. Kusper also said drafters were forced to be specific because the code required definitions.

The committee only heard testimony on the bill, and did not take action on the bill.

In a statement, Levin said "the bill violates the 1970 Illinois Constitution by reducing the powers and duties of the State Board of Elections almost to nothing."

He added that "every important decision here is either made by the bill or given to local election authorities."

Other charges by Levin included that:

"The bill prevents a voter from changing parties for primary election purposes for either two years or 23 months, in direct violation of a recent federal court decision."

"The bill requires citizens to reside in the state for six months in order to vote, in violation of federal constitutional law."

"The candidate's required loyalty oath is blatantly unconstitutional under the First Amendment."

Levin also said the bill "will disenfranchise many college students, because its definition of 'residence' may be used to prevent their registering at school, where their interests are, and where they are knowledgeable."

"What is worse, if they try to register at a school, after having registered at home, (the proposed code) requires that their home registration be cancelled, whether or not they are

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wiest, 4 Duncan Place, became parents of a daughter at 10:57 p.m. Sunday at Passavant hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. James Evans, 1086 North Fayette, became parents of a son at 1:36 a.m. Monday at Passavant hospital.

Of interest to Roodhouse residents is the birth of a son May 29 to Mr. and Mrs. James K. Bruce of Pittsfield. The infant has been named Stephen Kent. The couple has one son, four-year-old Richard James. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bruce of Roodhouse and Mr. and Mrs. David Buckley, Clayton, route one.

City Resident, Mildred Carter, Dies Monday

Mrs. Mildred Carter, 67, of 344 West Court died at 6:55 a.m. Monday at Norris hospital where she had been a patient since May 12.

She was born Sept. 9, 1904. The body was taken to Gillham - Buchanan Funeral Home. Further obituary facts and arrangements will be announced.

Four Injured In Two Area Crashes Monday

Three people were injured in a two car collision at the south junction of routes 104, 67, and Ill. 100, two miles east of Meredosia Monday at 11:50 a.m.

Taken to Passavant hospital were Thomas J. Koenig of St. Louis who is listed in "satisfactory" condition with rib injuries; his wife, Mae Koenig, 53, who was freed from the wreckage by the Meredosia rescue squad and is in "satisfactory" condition with hip injuries; and Alpha L. Nergenhah of Springfield who was treated for minor injuries and released.

According to investigating state police the Koenig auto was northbound on Ill. 100 and was struck by the westbound Nergenhah auto.

State police ticketed Koenig for running a stop sign.

In another accident Monday on route 67, four miles south of the junction of Ill. route 267, Alice R. Spangler, 26, received minor injuries. She was taken to Passavant hospital by Lowe ambulance and released after treatment.

State police said the Spangler woman was a passenger in a pickup driven by Raymond L. Morrow, 42, of Bushnell, which was northbound on route 67 about 1:30 p.m. towing a van-type truck. The towed vehicle apparently ran off the pavement causing Morrow to lose control of his truck sliding onto the shoulder of the road.

The towed vehicle broke loose and flipped on its top. Damage was estimated at about $350.

Morrow was not injured and no tickets were issued.

FIREMEN CALLED

Jacksonville firemen were called at 8:27 a.m. Monday to Route 36, seven miles east of the city. A truck driven by Dan Bahan of Route 2 suffered a broken radiator hose and Bahan thought the engine was on fire. There was no damage reported when firemen arrived.

Storm Hits Woodson

A tornado sighted west of Jacksonville shortly before 2 p.m. Sunday did not touch down in the city although slightly more than an inch and a half of rain pelted the area.

A storm with large hail, heavy rain and strong winds did result in some damage at Woodson, seven miles south of the city.

The funnel cloud sighted west of Jacksonville by state and county police was reported close to the ground and traveling across an open field. The funnel cloud apparently dissipated before reaching the city. Some swirls of wind were also spotted west of the shopping center but no damage was reported.

Woodson Storm
The storm at Woodson brought well over two inches of rain to that area. An unofficial rain measurement was listed at 2.78 inches of moisture. A large tree fell on a house in Woodson and an awning to a mobile home was reported torn off by the heavy winds but no evidence of a tornado was reported.

Several reports of television antenna damage were spotted throughout the community.

One section of roadway east of Woodson was covered by water for a time and several wires were reportedly down in the community.

Crop damage was quite evident in the surrounding area. Corn and bean crops were stripped by hail and it was not determined whether the crops would be re-planted. Most farmers were assessing their damage late Sunday and early Monday.

Senate Leader Attacks Mental Health Contract

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A $240,000 contract between the Illinois Department of Mental Health and a financial consultant was attacked Monday as a "shocking" waste of money by Assistant Senate Majority Leader Robert E. Cherry, D-Chicago, who said he would seek an investigation of it by the Legislative Audit Commission.

In a statement, Cherry charged it is "no less than shocking that in spite of record administrative budgets and payroll, the mental health department must engage expensive outside consultants to do the work the department's employees are being paid to do."

Cherry said that a $685,000 department contract with the American Appraisal Co. for consulting services already is under investigation by the audit commission, a state watchdog group.

The $240,000 contract, he said, was with a firm headed by a former American Appraisal employee. He added that the work performed by American Valuation Consultants of Rolling Meadows under the contract was supposed to have been done by department workers.

The $685,000 American Appraisal contract, signed by Donald R. Brinkman, then manager of the firm's central region, provided for departmental workers to estimate Medicare allowances and equipment depreciation in various health care facilities such as hospitals.

But, Cherry said, Brinkman later became head of American Valuation, which was then paid $165,000 to come up with the depreciation estimates. In addition, he said, American Valuation was paid $75,000 to update the information.

Cherry quoted the contract proposal with American Appraisal as saying that the firm would "provide you with a schedule of normal useful lives for movable equipment as found in your facilities."

"Your personnel will then be able to assign lives to the major movable equipment and make the necessary depreciation allowances for movable equipment," the proposal said.

"It is clear that American Valuation has received lucrative state contracts, perhaps surpassing their fondest expectations," Cherry said. "If this isn't a waste of the taxpayers' money, I simply don't know what is."

Edward Buskirk Of Pike Dies; Rites Tuesday
